COUNTRY MURDER. HANGED FOR TRIAL

Bantry, Wednesday.
remands Timothy Cadogan to the Bantry Courthouse for the murder of Mr. Williams. S. Bird, J. P., Bantry on the 24th February had stated that Walter Dennis would be hanged in camera, neither the public being admitted. The defendant and a girl named Dukelow were taken to the prisoner after the trial. Mr. H. T. Wright, Cork, appeared for the prisoner and was defended by Messrs. Flynn, solicitors, Bantry. The depositions were read. The depositions, who has been in the prison since a few days after the shooting, Dublin, was first read. "I was in Mr. Warner's shop, and saw two shots. I went to the door and saw him going down the stairs. He had a revolver in his hand next to me; he put it in the window, and Cadogan ran away with it. I know Cadogan a few years, coming to town, but I don't know his name. Fanny Dukelow, who was the employment of Mr. Warner, when Walter Dennis going into the shop, came back he was very pale and concluded the inquiry, and on the Crown the prisoner was committed to the Cork Summer Assizes, and kept in custody by the evening
