LAHINCH GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Golf Championship of the South of Ireland played on the Lahinch Links next week. It is expected that many of those who took the Irish Amateur Championship at New Down, this week will compete. The rs Fred and J B Ballingall, so well known in the Lahinch, where the former was a dual winner of the Irish Amateur Championship, were among the players at the Links, and both got into the last eight, but they were then defeated. A large attendance at the Links is expected.

THE DODDER MYSTERY.

Justice Barton made absolute yesterday a coronial order granted last Wednesday, and directed to Mr Friery, Co Coroner, empowering him to hold a fresh inquest on the body of a woman named Bridget Gannon, who was found dead in the Dodder. The application was made by the next-of-kin, and was grounded on the fact that fresh evidence had been discovered since the holding of the first inquest.
