

very poor how best to make the limited resources and to cook in a saving fashion the food they are worth themselves at home, we should shun poverty, degradation, and what we do at present, for, oftentimes resort to the public-house because food nor his home are at all in-

Information is transmitted by respondent of the Standard that at meeting of the Vienna Society of Kienbock introduced a man, of age, whose hair had been receded by the application of the He had been bald for some years. effected in the following way. A the scalp was subjected six times of the rays for fifteen minutes, two months the treatment lasted ed his old thick, dark-coloured s exposed to the action. The ated remain as before. During which followed, several members s as to whether Dr. Kienbock has remedy for baldness; but he was continue his experiments, and rt on them to the society at a later of the National Gallery of Ireland the price of one penny, the cata- n collection of the works of the late rton, which have been lent to them the Trustees of the National Por- England and by various private ollection is one of great value and the pictures have been so selected development of the painter's art, beginnings as a portrait draughts- own friends in Ireland, till he re- e Minister's offer of the Director- National Gallery. The thanks of nting are due to the Directors of ortrait Gallery for their parting. ly, with these treasures of art for eland.

our little pleasures are becoming day or two ago the people were nle poisoning, as the effect of beer luy we learn that even that in in- yrup which was the delight of our or which certain people of maturer a sneaking regard, is dangerous ng ladies who had taken some of olden syrup upon bread developed ill the symptoms of arsenic poison- es yielded to medical treatment, aking of more golden syrup the renewed. It is supposed (says a hat the golden syrup in question arable imitation, in which glucose rincipal ingredients. Beware of golden syrup!

will be "just the thing." For smokers there is a bewildering array of high-class goods, while the stock of walking sticks, mounted in gold, silver, and ivory, is very large and varied. The prices of all are such as will accommodate all pockets.

ACCIDENT AT BALLINGARRY—A painful accident has just occurred to a young man named John Hoolihan, son of a respectable farmer, Mr. James Hoolihan, residing at Fortwilliam, near Ballingarry. It seems that a cart load of sea-weed had arrived at the farmyard. The horse was unyoked and the cart remained for some time propped by a hay fork. Requiring the implement, the young man thoughtlessly removed it from beneath the shaft, and in doing so the cart came suddenly down, with the result that his leg was badly broken.

THE CASHEL POSTMASTER.—Yesterday morning Constable Patrick O'Sullivan, and Constable Peter Sullivan of Golden (about three miles from Cashel), were engaged in dragging the River Suir, at Mantlehill side, with a view to finding the body of Mr. Hubert Cahill postmaster of the town, who left his home in a rather mysterious manner just three weeks ago. Great sympathy is felt for deceased's two sisters. Deceased was a general favourite, and during his 27 years in charge of the post-office he made a host of friends. At the time he disappeared his accounts were correct to the last farthing.

DEATH OF MR. J. J. SCULLY, W.L.W.R.—We regret to record the demise of Mr. John J. Scully, Claims Clerk in the Traffic Manager's Office, Waterford, Limerick, and Western Railway, which took place this morning at St. John's Hospital. About a fortnight ago Mr. Scully contracted a cold which developed into typhoid fever, and despite the best medical care and nursing, it has ended fatally, to the deep regret of a wide circle of friends. Mr. Scully, who was only 36 years of age, had been in the service of the W. & L. Company since his boyhood, and for many years past filled the important position of Claims Clerk, which brought him very much in contact with the public, who ever found him courteous and painstaking. He was also Secretary of the Waterford, Limerick and Western Railway Friendly Society, in the welfare of which he took the greatest interest. His premature demise is deeply deplored, and the sincerest sympathy is expressed with his bereaved wife and family, and also with his father, who is station-master at Tipperary. Funeral will leave St. Michael's R.C. Church at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

THE CLERK OF THE CROWN AND PEACE.

APPOINTMENT OF MR. WM. BEAUCHAMP.
The Lord Lieutenant has been pleased to appoint Mr. W. M. Beauchamp to be Clerk of the Crown and Peace for the County and City of Limerick.

LIMERICK NIGHT-WATCH.

In the Queen's Bench Division, the case of Lahiff v. Heath and O'Driscoll was again argued. This was the second branch of the case argued last week on the point whether the Limerick night-watch were "constables" within the meaning of the Limerick Corporation Act of 1853. The court then decided that the Corporation had power to appoint constables, and allowed the question as to whether the appointment in this particular case

Mr. Killeen, stocktaker, said he begged with a list of condemned clothing, furniture, utensils, &c., as taken by him in the Workhouse.

After a long discussion, Mr. McInerney, Mr. Harding, Mr. Hogan, and Mr. Lyons, accompanied by Mr. Bourke, went to visit the condemned clothing. They returned after having examined them.

Mr. McInerney said they had examined condemned clothing, and found everything perfectly correct, but added that the stock was badly paid for the work he had to do.

The disposing of the old stock was a matter for a week.

MISS MAUD GONNE IN LIMERICK.

Last night Miss Maud Gonne delivered a lecture at the Athenaeum under the auspices of the Limerick Branch of the Young Ireland Society on the subject of "Ireland and her relations." The Hall was crowded, and the audience included several ladies. The Band attended and played some National airs as Miss Maud Gonne, accompanied by her husband and some members of the Corporation entered the building about twenty past eight, it struck up the "Marseillaise" there was loud cheering as the lady approached the platform. The Mayor presided, in the presence of the Rev. Father Kavanaugh (President of the Young Ireland Society), whose religious views prevented his attending. Those also on the platform were—Alderman Prendergast, Col. Moran, Connery, P. Moloney, Dalton, Godsell, Slattery, James Moloney, M. O'Reilly, J. A. Power (hon. sec. Young Ireland Society), &c.

Mr. Boyer having read a letter from Father Kavanaugh, the Mayor opened the proceedings by remarking that it would be a strange thing if this city Miss Gonne could not get the hall, particularly as this hall was the property of the people. He hoped the intolerance which had been attempted had received sufficient punishment to be repeated. (Cheers).

Miss Gonne then proceeded with her lecture in her usual characteristic style. A great part was devoted to the War in South Africa in which the "Irish Brigade" played a prominent part. She also dealt with the subject, "Ireland and her Foreign Relations," from a commercial view.

Mr. Moran, solicitor, proposed a vote of thanks to Miss Gonne, which was seconded by Mr. Godsell and heartily supported by the Mayor. In the course of his remarks, read a telegram from Liverpool, Irishmen, stating—"Hope Miss Gonne arrived all right. Long life to her" (cheers).

Miss Gonne having replied to the vote of thanks the proceedings terminated. A Government stocktaker was present.

ASSAULTING A SOLDIER IN A RAILWAY CARRIAGE.

At Newmarket Petty Sessions on Monday before Messrs. A. E. Heard, R.M., in the presence of R. J. O'Kennedy, R. Gubbins, and E. J. L. O'Connell, Inspector Meredith charged Patrick Manning with assaulting Private Manning, of the 1st Shire Light Infantry, in a railway carriage at Drunkton, on the 22nd October. It was proved from the evidence of Manning, who deposed that he was on furlough and proceeding to Dublin by the 4.45 p.m. train from Limerick. Hayes, who was in the same carriage, "got on to him," to use the words, and a conversation arose with ref-