

said he was I asked him to come as far as the creamy; he said he would; we were just starting when Constable Kellaghan came up and asked me what noise I was making, and charged me with being drunk; I denied this, and he said I would have to go to the barrack; I said that I would not go; Mr. O'Shaughnessy and myself then went on our way.

Mr. Gaussen: How many drinks had you taken that day?

Witness: On my oath I had not more than four bottles that day, and no whiskey; I drank the last bottle of porter at 5.30 p.m., and had none afterwards, and it was about 10.30 p.m. when I met the police; I never had any falling out with this constable or with any policeman in Limerick.

Mr. Gaussen: You can cross-examine the witness.

Constable Kellaghan: There is no use, your witness. There have been serious charges made against me to-day, and I ask you to adjourn the case to the appearance of Constable Hall.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy: It would be as well to dispose of this case, as it was some over zeal on the part of the constable.

The court decided to adjourn the case till next Monday, the District Inspector undertaking to have Constable Hall brought from Cappamore.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES LENEHAN.

Many of our readers will, we are sure, learn with regret of the death of Mr. James Lenehan, which took place after a long and patiently borne illness on Sunday. Some years ago Mr. Lenehan was well known in the city, and highly respected for his quiet unassuming character, while his musical ability was of no mean order. He was a well known member of the musical re-union in the city. Mr. Lenehan was the eldest son of the late Mr. Maurice Lenehan, editor of the Limerick Reporter and Typographic Indicator, whose history of Limerick is so well known and appreciated.
Although very delicate all his life, a fact which prevented his talents being thoroughly shown, he was very talented in many ways. He leaves an aged mother and two sisters to mourn his loss, one of the latter being a member of the Faithful Companions in Bruff, and the other the Health Officer at Perth, West Australia, a lady from whom from time to time we have received kindly and reminiscent letters. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved ladies on the loss of a loving son and brother who led a blameless life.

THE NEW CENTURY.

This is the title of a small pamphlet lately issued by Mr. George Thomas Congreve, the famous Specialist for Consumption and all diseases of the lungs, of Gombé Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E. This booklet contains valuable and striking testimony to the efficiency of Mr.
Congreve's remedies, from patients who have followed the treatment and derived benefit from it. Hundreds of his patients after being told by competent medical men that there was absolutely no hope of their recovery, have been restored to health and strength by Mr. Congreve's treatment and have been able to do their share in the world's work. Of this latter fact there is abundance of proof, and in this new pamphlet each case has been personally interviewed and the written consent of the patient for the publication of his cure, with his name and address has been obtained. As seen from our advertising columns "The New Century" will be sent free of the charge to any of our readers who will apply to Mr. Con-greve's office.

CITY PETTY SESSIONS. YESTERDAY.

Before Mr. E. F. Hickson, R.M. (presiding), Mr. J. Guinane, Mr. Poole Gabbett, and Mr. J. H.
Roche.

STREET OBSTRUCTION.

Sergeant Murphy summoned Michael Fitzgerald employed by a local Carrying Company, for causing an obstruction in William street by leaving a float across the street.

The Chairman—Of all the disorderly cities in universe, Limerick beats them out.

Head-Constable Feeney said that the police always try to regulate the traffic.

The Chairman: I was in Cork the other day, and in all the congested districts a policeman was posted to regulate the traffic.

The defendant was fined 5s.

NEGLECT OF CHILDREN—SAD CASE.

Sergeant Beatty charged Mrs. Margaret Casey Nicholas street, with being drunk and neglecting her children.

Mr. Counihan, solicitor, appeared for the defendant.

Sergeant Beatty stated that on Saturday night the defendant was drunk. Subsequently on going to the room occupied by the defendant and her children he found the children lying on a bed of straw on the floor; a little child was minding an infant and the mother was lying down drunk; the children had scarcely any clothes over them, and their bodies were black; there was no fire or light in the room; they had no home of their own, and were given the room by a man named Walsh; witness never saw a more neglected or miserable case.

Mr. Counihan said that poverty was the cause of it.

Chairman: What is her husband?

Sergeant Beatty: A dock labourer.

Chairman: Dock labourers are well paid.

The defendant was sentenced to three months imprisonment.

ILLNESS OF MR. STEPHEN GLYNN.

His friends in Limerick will hear with very great regret of the illness of Mr. Stephen Glynn, who for a long number of years was local head of the clerical department of the Waterford and Limerick Railway, and for a long time acted as Traffic Superintendent previous to Mr. Vaughan being appointed to that office. On the amalgamation taking place, Mr. Glynn was appointed District Superintendent for the Tuam district, where he was recently married. For some weeks past, Mr. Glynn's health has been very indifferent, and lately it took so severe a form that grave anxiety is felt as to his possible recovery.
