

THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE, TUESDAY EVENING

in granting the loan for the 20 artisans' cottages proposed to be erected, which is probably unique even in the annals of long-winded resolutions. It consisted of 12 paragraphs, containing from seven to 35 lines, and, in all, this wonderful resolution contained no less than 150 printed lines of small type.

NO APPLICATIONS.

"For the position of probationer nurse and laundress no applications were received, and it was decided to advertise again." So runs a paragraph in the report of the Kilrush Guardians. We have no desire to push the Chronicle down the throats of our district (and local) governing bodies; but the ineffectuality of a good deal of the advertising they do is so often shown by such reports as this, that, to save the ratepayers' money, and members' annoyance, we might observe with all modesty "why not try the Chronicle." One of the reasons we make the suggestion is that we happen to know as the result of advertisements in our own columns of the great number of unemployed young ladies. There are, not alone in the city, but in many of the places round about. Any single advertisement for a young lady brings in many applications, and some of those applying would probably be only too anxious and willing to take places elsewhere than in Limerick—but they do not know that such places are vacant. So Messieurs the Guardians and local Boards generally, in the words of an advertisement in our columns, "If you would get at the reading public" "try the Chronicle."

MISREPRESENTATION OF IRELAND.

Under the heading "Up-to-Date Information" (the satire is obvious) the Church of Ireland Gazette says:—Our readers will be startled at the latest information about Irish education which is to be found in "Gill's Imperial Geography for Colleges and Schools Revised to 1901, by G. Gill, F.R.G.S.," a book largely used in preparation for the Oxford and Cambridge Exams. On page 48, under head "Ireland," we read: "Education—There is only one University, viz., the Royal University of Ireland (Dublin). In addition there are Queen's Colleges at Belfast, Cork, and Galway, and a large College at Maynooth for the education and instruction of the Roman Catholic priesthood." A further example of astounding ignorance may be found in some of Raphael Tuck's Heraldic postcards:—"Dublin—The University"—with a photograph of the University Buildings in Earlsfort Terrace. Our readers can easily assure themselves of the accuracy of these facts, which at first sight appear incredible. The complete ignoring of the famed and venerable Trinity College in both these cases is due to ignorance, deplorable and inexcusable, or is it due to any other cause? We trust the matter may be taken up and the truth given to the public. Yet this is but an instance more striking than

ACCIDENT TO THE KNIGHT OF GLIN.

We regret to learn of a rather serious accident which befel the Knight of Glin yesterday. While out with a shooting party on the preserves of Adare Manor, it would appear that the left barrel of the Knight's gun burst, with the result that his left hand was severely lacerated but fortunately none of the fingers was lost. Medical attendance was at once requisitioned, and we are glad to learn that the injured gentleman passed a good night, and is progressing favourably.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MR. P. F. M'DONNELL.

The funeral of this young gentleman, whose death occurred on Saturday, took place yesterday. The deceased, who was only in his seventeenth year, was third son of Alderman Patrick McDonnell, and his early death cut short a career full of promise. He had passed brilliant examinations in preparation for the medical profession, and had entered the Royal College of Surgeons, but an affection brought on by an attack of rheumatic fever compelled him to relinquish his studies. The cortege was exceedingly large, and embraced all classes of the citizens.

The chief mourners were—Alderman Patrick M'Donnell (father), Dr. Charles M'Donnell, Mr. M. T. M'Donnell, Surgeon Dentist, and Mr. John T. M'Donnell (brothers), Mr. Michael M'Namara, George Street, and Mr. Michael McMahon, Pallaskey (uncles).

The clergy in attendance were—Rev. Father O'Donnell, Adm., St. Michael's; Rev. Father Cregan, C.C. do; Rev. Dr. O'Riordan, C.C. do; Rev. Father Lee, C.C. do; Rev. Father Lee, Adm., St. John's; Rev. Father M. Murphy, C.C. do; Rev. Father O'Connor, C.C. do; Rev. Father Kelly, S.J.; Rev. Father O'Neill, S.J.; Rev. Father Duhig, O.P.; Rev. Father Keenan, O.P.; Rev. Fr. Dundon, O.S.A.; Rev. Fr. Knowles, O.S.A. It would be impossible to give anything like a complete list of the general public in attendance, but amongst those who sent carriages were: The High Sheriff, Sir Thomas Cleeve, Mrs. O'Brien, South Hill; Mr. E. C. Cleeve, Mr. Vincent Nash, J.P.; Mr. W. L. Stokes, J.P.; Mr. H. Blackall, solicitor; Mr. A. W. Shaw, J.P.; Mr. F. Kearney, solicitor; Mr. J. E. Murphy, Manager Bank of Ireland; Dr. Holmes, Mr. Bryan O'Donnell, J.P.; Dr. O'Sullivan, Dr. Barry, Mr. W. B. Fitt, Mr. P. R. Toppin, Dr. Nolan, Mr. C. H. Fitt, Sub-Sheriff; Mr. E. J. Long, Mr. O'Callaghan, Mr. P. M'Donagh, Military Road; Mr. Michael Egan, Mr. R. Keating, Mr. Ralph Nash, Mr. Fitzelle, Sexton street; Mr. Robert Hickey.

The pupils of the Christian Brothers' Schools and the staffs of several of the public institutions in the city with which Alderman M'Donnell is connected walked in the procession.
