

(son), Belock; Tyrone, Sir Thomas Angfield; Wicklow, Wm. Eccles, King's County, J. A. Drought, Longford, Hon. Thomas New-

“(Thursday) It was on this date Holland first brought forward in the Lords the question of Catholic Emancipation. No decision was come to fixing a discussion of his motion.”

“Further proposals for the mason cutting work of the county goal will till Saturday next at Mr. Fosbery's Quay.”

(Dublin)—“The Privy Council proclamation to be issued to admit of foreign flour till 25th March her orders to the contrary.”

“We are happy to perceive by the notices in the Gazette that a spirit of becoming of late very prevalent, and expect that this island will by this em- land-holders once more resume in wooding, that sylvan beauty for which early pre-eminent among the Nations

—“Notwithstanding the reports contrary, the Ministerial Prints assure the Guineas British have arrived in Vienna, guarded by a number of Hussars.” Alas! our guineas.”

—“Three of the unhappy wretches to death by a Courtmartial at Leixlip robbery and murder of Mr. Howard, of were executed yesterday at the Turn-contiguous to Annesley Bridge, in ce of a greater concourse of spectators has been remembered on any occasion. After hanging the usual bodies were brought to Surgeons' cer-street, for dissection.”

—“Wednesday last Lieut.-Colonel Bigwell was unanimously elected a Member in the Imperial Parliament for the County of Clonmel, in the room of Stephen J. John Dennis, Esqrs., resigned.”

—“With horror we have to record acts of rebellion committed in the very this loyal city. On Thursday night a large tract of the lands of Pierce Esq., at Newcastle West, and other were completely broken up. . . . Every rebel man must be called forth to put rebellion that would be a disgrace to the civilized or savage part of America.” (A specimen of the century-old bull).

l.—“Wednesday night some person or persons broke into the vestry room of St. Michael's, where meal was deposited to be distributed among the poor of the Parish, and a sack of oatmeal.”

l.—“The wife of a person who a short time ago was held in great respect in this city, and whose children, all of whom are in a famishing state, humbly beg leave to appeal to the benevolence of a benevolent public to prevent suffering for want of the necessaries of life.” m. Hoare, Rev. Mr. Lewis, and Mr. printer of the Chronicle, vouch for the

21.—Under this date complaints are made that many farmers and gentlemen are engaged in distilling the grain which should be reserved for the food of the poor, and that the lower classes are so brutified in their habits as to be forward with their demand for intoxication as to forward with their demand and even to protect by force, the very late Henry Bourchier, of Anna, Co. Clare. DIED.—“Last night (Feb. 27), on the Lock-quay, after a lingering illness, Mrs. Brady, wife to Hugh Brady, Esq.”

DIED.—“At Fethard, in the Co. Tipperary, Mr. Thomas Hill, only son of Mr. John Hill, attorney, of that town.”

“DIED—On Tuesday last, at Kilballyowen, universally regretted by a numerous acquaintance, Mr. James Bourchier, son of Joseph Bourchier, Esq.—Yesterday, in Mary street, Mr. Patrick Trant, grocer.”

(A continuation of these extracts will appear in our issue next Tuesday.)

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MR. JEREMIAH O'BRIEN.

The funeral of the late Mr. Jeremiah O'Brien, of Lower Cecil Street, whose early demise is sincerely regretted by a large circle of friends, took place on Friday afternoon for Mount St. Lawrence. The cortege was very large and representative, and a number of vehicles were also sent by friends. The clergy present were—Father O'Donnell, Father Lee, Father Cregan, Rev. Dr. O'Riordan, Father McArdle, S.J.; Father Rennie, S.J.; Father Moloney, O.S.F. The Chief Mourners were—Mr. John O'Brien (brother), Master F. O'Brien (son), Messrs. Michael and John O'Shaughnessy (brothers-in-law), Frank and Patrick O'Shaughnessy (nephews-in-law), Masters T. Curtin, J. O'Shaughnessy, J. Palmer. Amongst the general public were—Messrs. Patrick Shaughnessy, John Palmer, John Scully, Henry McMahon, Joseph Gwynor, James Borroughs, William Gale, James Hayes, Theo. Hook, John Curtin, Michael Hartigan, John Jordonson, R. Jordonson, V. Stenson, Wyndham Switzer, James Forrest (City High Constable), Jeremiah Forrest, J. Ormston, Wm. Ormston, Richd. Cooke, Edward Cooke, Michael Gilligan, Thos. Gilligan, Thos. Leonard, Edward O'Connell, Denis Quinlan, McGrail, Dante, Jerh. Enright, Michael Sheehy, Wallace, Dempsey, Jos. Fizzelle, Thos. O'Neill, Charles Hanrahan, Michael Wylde, P Mannix, James Adams, Henry Watson, Joseph Blake, Charles Flynn, Thomas Nowell, Joseph Cusack, James Heaphy, Patrick Egan, Joseph O'Brien, Edward Kavanagh, Patrick Kavanagh, Bryan McGann, — Keating. — Fitzgibbon, Michael Reynolds. — Hanrahan, John McNamara, John Cahall, Wm. Moloney. — Flynn, Thos Dowling, J. P. Newell, John Bryne, Frank Sullivan, — Manning, Robert Healy, — D'Arcy, Peter Punch, Henry Ualy, Michael Goggin, J. Moloney, Thomas Cantwell, James Egan, Tim. Kavanagh, Sergeants McAree, Wickham, Beatty, and O'Shea, Acting-Sergeant Hayes, and several other members of the R.I.C. were also present. A large number of beautiful wreaths were sent by friends.

Amongst those who sent wreaths were the following:—Mrs. O'Brien, Mr. John O'Brien, Mr. Michael O'Shaughnessy, Mr and Mrs. P. O'Shaughnessy, Mr. John Curtin, “A few Friends,” Mr. and Mrs. J. Palmer.

WORKHOUSE ENTERTAINMENTS.

A GENEROUS SUBSCRIPTION LIST.

The Tea and Entertainment at the Union, which had been postponed from January 24th, on account of the Queen's death, took place on Violent passages-at-arms took place. Councillors Fitzgerald and Whelors Donnellan and Coffey, the worst “traitor,” and similar expressions exchanged. Eventually the resolution was drawn, but the disorder was motion for a adjournment was adopted.

THE CORONATION OATH
Mr. T. B. Gough proposed that “That we, the Borough Council emphatically protest against the wanton insult offered to Catholics his Majesty the King in his declaration the opening of Parliament, and the Parliamentary representatives, the abolition of all obsolete statutes, and declarations, unnecessarily offensive are possible, or under which the rights of Catholics still exist.” He said that he would not be Catholics at all if they stood by this insult to be offered to their King by Royalty itself (hear, hear). I who differed from him both in politics would fully agree that this oath was a insult to the Catholic religion (applaud).

Mr R. P. O'Connor seconded. His Protestant fellow-countrymen on the other side of the Channel could find so much if they complained (hear, hear.) They were to live under equal laws in politics, as the people on the other side of the Channel. But they now know not (hear, hear), and he did not think Edward would have attempted to insult to any of his Protestants in twenty-four hours they would have done it. He did not see why Roman Catholics should be insulted, and they should be insulted in the strongest possible manner.

Mr. Stokes, as a Protestant, suggested that the resolution were modified it would be more judiciously. He did not believe that the Coronation Oath was ever intended as an insult to Catholics. He would be glad if any insult should be offered to the other religion, and as, he believed that was intended, he suggested that the resolution should be modified, but it was a little too strong. The proposal was nothing to do with the framing of the resolution in the present position of affairs. He should have tolerance on all sides. However, he thought that a matter of business should be sprung on the Council without so that they might have time to consider the question. He suggested that the resolution should be modified in its present form he (Mr. Stokes) would be glad to do so.

Sir Thomas Cleeve said he would be glad to do so. He believed that it would have as much, and perhaps more, if they all desired to live on good terms with the Roman Catholic brethren, and that any insult should be offered to Catholics and he agreed with Mr. Stokes in his intention. Instead of an insult to Catholics, it would be an insult to the Roman Catholics.

Mr. O'Brien (Irishtown) said he would be glad to do so. He knew how the resolution could be modified.

Mr. Stokes—If it were pointed out that the clauses in the oath were objected to by Catholics, and requesting that the resolution would meet the requirements of Catholics.

Mr. Gough—When I was drafted into consideration of the resolution I took into consideration the views of gentlemen at the opposite side, and for them I modified it. But I do not consider that the resolution is at all from a Catholic point of view. I was not with Mr. Stokes or Sir T.