

THEATRE ROYAL.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES."

W. Payne Seddon's Company will open a night's engagement, commencing Thursday, 24th, at the Theatre Royal, in the highly successful comedy, "What happened to Jones." One of the merriest comedies ever produced, pure, wholesome and genuine fun prevails from start to finish. The piece was a great rage in London, and the Provincial Tour has also proved immense success. It will be the first time the play will be produced in Limerick, and Mr. Seddon's Company, who are no strangers, may be certain of liberal support during their stay.

THE ARMY.

On account of ill-health Captain Magee, Leinster Regiment, is placed on retired half-pay.

On the 8th February Colonel Mahon, who has recently relieved Mafeking, will be honoured with a banquet by many admirers amongst the gentry of the county.

Lieutenant Manserg, R.I.B., Clonmel, is understood to proceed by the "Canada" on Saturday to South Africa, to join his battalion at the front.

FASHIONABLE.

The Countess of Limerick has been staying at the Marlborough Hotel, 21 Upper Merrion Street, Dublin, during the past week, where she was visited by the Countess Cadogan. The Countess left Dublin for Dromore Castle, Limerick, on Tuesday.

Among the latest arrivals in Ireland are Lord and Lady Castletown, who made a long detour on their way back from South Africa, where they spent the greater part of last year.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY.

Mrs. Shaw's name was inadvertently omitted among the Honorary and Working Associates of the Girls' Friendly Society who were present at the entertainment to the members at the Protestant Orphan Hall on Monday evening last. No one worked with more goodwill than Mrs. Shaw for the enjoyment of the guests. Miss Gardiner and Mrs. Jackson Harris were also among the Associates present. The secretaries wish to thank the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly helped in entertaining the members and their friends. They also wish to thank Mr. Keller for his generosity in lending an excellent piano.

KILMALLOCK PARISH.

The annual social entertainment in connection with this parish, consisting of a soiree and concert, was held on Friday last. About 100 of the parishioners sat down to a substantial tea, provided by the ladies of the parish, Mrs. Hackett, Miss Hackett, Miss Bailey, Mrs. Sam Harris, Miss Kate Harris, Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Costelloe, Miss Maggie Bailey, Mrs. Whitney, and Miss Jane Bailey presiding at the different tables. After tea, a very successful concert was held, the contributors to which were Mrs. Tom Bennett, Miss Jane Bailey, Mrs. Costello, Mr. Ebbett, Mr. Dalby Hackett, R.A., Miss Ettma Hackett, Miss Oliver, Miss Read, and Miss May Senior. The Rev. Canon Hackett, D.D., at the conclusion of the entertainment, proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies and gentlemen who had given their talents and time for the occasion; and all agreed that this was the most enjoyable evening ever held in the Coote Memorial Hall, Kilmallock.

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM W. O'CONNELL.

On Sunday evening, sincerely regretted by a host of relations and friends, Mr. William W. O'Connell, second surviving son of the late lamented Mr. William O'Connell, cattle dealer, Ballingarry, passed peacefully away at the residence of his mother. The deceased by his unpretentious and winning disposition had rendered himself a great favourite with all classes. The concourse of people that joined in the funeral procession which accompanied the remains for interment in the family vault in Ballingarry Cemetery on Tuesday evening eloquently spoke of the genuine love and esteem that was entertained for him, and testified the great respect in which his family and numerous relatives are held.

IRISH MANUFACTURE.

A ROYAL ORDER.

A large order for furniture has just been received at the Killarney Furniture Industries from the Duke and Duchess of York, for Sandringham House. The excellent and artistic work turned out at this concern has already made a name for itself, particularly in England, the numerous repeat orders constantly received tending to show how much the work is valued.
