DEATH OF A BANK MANAGER.

The sad death of Mr. P. S. Palmer, manager of the Newcastle West Branch of the National Bank occurred last evening about five o'clock, and the announcement came as a great surprise and shock to every one, for although Mr. Palmer has been ailing for the past three weeks, it was thought the serious danger attending his illness had passed, and that it was only a question of time when he would be again enjoying his usual health. The profoundest feelings of sorrow and deepest sympathy are shown by everyone, for the deceased gentleman, by his gentle, unobtrusive and genial disposition endeared himself to all classes, but to those privileged to enjoy his cultured society his death has just now overshadowed everything else.
Very sincere sympathy is extended by the people of the town to Mrs. Palmer and her family in their bereavement.

THE STEEN'S.

With their performances last night and again this afternoon, the Steen's brought to a close a week's entertainment for the Limerick public which has been a pronounced success and which will ensure them crowded houses when next they visit us. Last night in the presence of a good house there was a complete and at the same very funny exposure of table lifting and other so called "spiritualistic" phenomena, the performer not only doing the trick but explaining it afterwards so that every one else could do it so minded without special apparatus or media.
We do not appear to have any spiritualistic adherents in Limerick. If we had they would position to act on Mr. O'Donnell's opinion?

The Chairman considered that they were, as I O'Donnell was acting for Mr Coffey as their Leg Adviser, and Mr Coffey was responsible for paying his substitute.

Mr. O'Donnell said there was a resolution the books, proposed by Mr Delmege, that M Coffey should be personally responsible for t payment of his salary.

Mr. Coleman said with reference to the su-collected by Mr. Coffey the Council could retathat amount out of his salary.

Mr. Geary—We have no responsible solicitor present.

Mr. Coleman—That is wrong.
Mr. Geary pointed out that according to M O'Donnell he was merely acting for Mr. Coffey the request of his brother, and he held that the was no proper authority given. Of course the was no objection to Mr O'Donnell, who was most able and capable gentleman.

Mr. Coleman said Mr. O'Donnell had cor-before the Council and had been accepted as M Coffey's substitute, but the latter was to be responsible for the salary.

Mr. Geary—I deny that altogether. I do object to have Mr. O'Donnell our future La Adviser, but I believe he has no locus standi present.

The Chairman said the only irregularity saw in the matter was that Mr Coffey should have got leave of absence from the Council, but believed Mr O'Donnell was properly acting their Law Adviser.

Mr Robert Coll suggested that as this was t first time the absence of Mr. Coffey had be mentioned, they should pass a resolution calling him or his representative to resume duty within certain time, or otherwise the Council would ta-serious notice of his absence.

Lord Dunraven: I want it to be clearly unstood that I am not for a moment hinting that M O'Donnell is not thoroughly capable of doing t work, but I think it has been made clear that has not got the authority of the Council to act legal adviser, and I would ask the Chairman take steps to put the matter right. Mr. Cof might stay away for the next twenty years, a draw his salary according to the present arranment.

The Chairman: I am sure that state of thir would not be allowed to continue for twenty ye-nor for one year.

Lord Dunraven: I hope you as Chairman v see the matter be set right.

Mr. E. Mitchell said that Mr. Leahy had be acting as Law Adviser for Mr Barrington twelve months, and this question had not be raised.

Mr. Geary: That was a different thing. I Barrington was a transferred officer to t Council.

Mr. Coleman held that the resolution adop-by the Council, on the motion of Mr Delmege, an acknowledgment of the authority of Council to have Mr O'Donnell act as Coffey's substitute, and they were cognizant t he was so acting, and had given consent.

Mr. Delmege: I would ask Mr. O'Donnell h self if he is acting legally as our Law Adviser.

Mr. O'Donnell: I think I am acting with consent of the Council. Of course I did not th when appointed substitute that I would be quired to act for so long a period, but I am opinion that I am still acting as your Law Advi and legally before you.

Mr. Delmege said as Mr O'Donnell was acting with the written authority of Mr. Cof the latter could say that he was not answer-for the payment of Mr O'Donnell's salary.

The Chairman: That is their own business.

Mr. Delmege: It would be our business t because we would be answerable for the salary
