SAD DEATH AT KILFINANE.

General regret is felt at the announcement of the death of Mr. John Downes, of Kilfinane. The sad event took place on Saturday evening at Hospital, under painful circumstances. Mr. Downes had been engaged at some works at Hospital, and left for his home at Kilfinane on Saturday evening, accompanied by some friends, but had not proceeded far from the town of Hospital, when he became suddenly ill, and was taken to a neighbouring house, where spiritual and medical aid were summoned. He, however, died after a few hours. He was a man in the prime of life, of fine physique, and of the most genial disposition. He took a deep interest in Gaelic pastimes, and was founder of the famous Kilfinane hurling team.
