During his long and useful life, Dr. O'Shaughnessy was closely identified with every charitable movement in this city, and he (Sir Vincent) could safely say from personal knowledge, that St. John's Hospital ever took a foremost place in his heart. They all remembered that a few short weeks ago Dr. O'Shaughnessy at the preliminary meeting held to organise a Fete in aid of this Institution made an able and powerful speech advocating the claims of St. John's Hospital and the cause of the sick and suffering poor of their city. FUNERAL OF A CO. LIMERICK LADY.

The funeral of Mrs. Jane Madigan, Newcastle West, an old, esteemed, and respected lady, took place at the family vault, Churchtown, the cortege being one of the largest seen in the locality, and was representative of all classes of the community. The deceased lady had reached her 75th year, and was in possession of her faculties to the end, which was marked with calm peacefulness and resignation. A member of one of the old county Limerick family—the Quaid—she was highly regarded in the town and district, where her many unassuming virtues endeared her to numerous friends, and her charity and love for the poor was a leading trait in her life. The deepest sympathy is extended by the people of Newcastle to her daughters in their bereavement.

M.P.'S WHO NEVER SIT.

Now that Colonel Lyach will be unable to take his seat, he will be the fourth member of the House of Commons in the last twenty years who has been elected to Parliament and never sat. In 1880 Mr. J. S. Wright was elected M.P. for Nottingham, but he never took his seat in the House, owing to his sudden death on the very day of his election, and five years later another death of a new-elected M.P. occurred, Sir George Harrison dying before the meeting of the Parliament
