BAD FOR CYCLISTS.

Mr. John Crotty made a strong complaint at a late meeting of the District Council of the condition of a road in his locality which he described as a disgrace to the County Surveyor and the county. He said that as a result of the rough metalling some cyclists had the tyres of their machines punctured, and these gentlemen were put to great inconvenience. Some of them had to enter his own house to try and effect repairs, whilst others were obliged to walk into town. The Council agreed to take action on the matter.

DIRECT LABOUR.

The Clare County Council Scheme of Direct Labour on the public roads will be considered at the next meeting of the Kiltrush Rural Council, and an important debate is anticipated on this question, which is now occupying a large share of public attention.

BE WISE IN TIME.

The Local Government Board, in view of the outbreak of small pox in various parts of Ireland, advised the Kiltrush Guardians to put into operation the regulations for the notification of diseases. The Board of Guardians in view of the immunity which the County has fortunately enjoyed from the dangerous malady, did not consider it necessary to take special action, and no order was made on the recommendation.

A LITTLE BILL.

Kiltrush Rural Council have received bills amounting to £44 8s for the first inquiry held at Kilkree over the Water and Sewerage Scheme.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

The Kiltrush Guardians are most fortunate in having so efficient and able a Clerk as Mr. Timothy Kelly. As indicating his painstaking efforts of work, it was elicited at the last meeting of the body, when discussing the water and sewerage schemes of Kilkree that this gentleman had made abstracts from minutes and correspondence for a period covering twenty years dealing with this particular matter, and produced same before the inspectors at the investigations, in addition to giving valuable evidence to show that there was no default or failure in the part of the Board as a sanitary authority in meeting the requirements of the famed watering place from the point of view of sanitation. The Guardians warmly complimented their chief official on his great assiduity.

WON'T MIX.

Whether olive oil could be adulterated by the addition of water, in the same way as whiskey or milk when mixed with nature's non-intoxicating beverage, was a little problem that the Board of Guardians endeavoured to solve on last Saturday, but in vain, and the obtrusive point was let stand for the opinion of an analyst.

WITHIN RANGE.

The members of the Rural Council, at their last meeting, accepted a number of tenders for the erection of labourers' cottages. Building operations will commence immediately, so that this long-deferred scheme may now be said to be within range of actual completion.

DOUBLE SUICIDE.

A LAST REQUEST.

A supposed case of double suicide has been reported to the Plymouth police. On Friday evening a young lady and gentleman hired a rowing boat and proceeded into the Sound. Two hours later the boat without the occupants was seen floating past the pier. Tied to the seat was a memorandum book, with a note addressed to Mr. Williams, Bodmin, saying— "Good-bye to all. We have agreed to die together, to save ourselves from the slurs of other people. Let us be buried together."

manded the accused in custody to Petty Sessions.

THE LATE MR. M. H. ANGLELY.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY.

The remains of the late Mr. Malcolm H. Angley, fourth son of the late Mr. William Ponsonby Angley, of this city, were removed yesterday morning, at 9.30 o'clock, from Albert Cottage, for interment at the family burial-place, St. Mary's Cathedral. The young gentleman's demise on the very threshold of manhood is deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends, by whom he was beloved for his simple, guileless, and generous disposition. He had a bright prospect in life before him, but

"Death hath all seasons for its own,"

and in the close of a young and useful life, there has been caused a void in the family circle which can never be filled. Deep sympathy, as evidenced by the large and representative cortege which followed the remains to their last resting place, is expressed with Mrs. Angley, and her family in their poignant sorrow. On arriving at St. Mary's Cathedral, the coffin which was strewn with beautiful wreaths and crosses of natural flowers, was borne up the aisle as the solemn strains of "C Rest in the Lord" issued forth from the organ presided over by Mr. F. Musgratt. The service was partly choral, the music being sung by the Cathedral choir, of which the deceased had been a member from his childhood. The 90th psalm "Lord thou hast been our refuge," was sung to a Chant by Purcell, and the hymn was the beautiful one, "Now the Labourer's task is o'er." As the coffin was being conveyed from the church to the grave, the "Dead March in Saul" was played. The burial service was read by the Rev. E. Archdall, Succentor.

The chief mourners were—Messrs. F. B. Angley, L.P.S.; E. W. Angley, J. G. Angley, H. P. Angley, W. P. Angley, brothers; F. Mitchell, brother-in-law; W. Myles, cousin; Edmund McCann, uncle.

The clergy present were—Rev. E. Archdall, Rev. T. B. Robertson.

POLLUTION OF THE SHANNON

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

At a meeting of Limerick No. 1. Cou Saturday, Mr. Thomas Lane, D.C., presiding deputation recently appointed by the Health Committee to enquire into the pollution of the river at Castleconnell, was present.

The Mayor said they had attended before Council to ask them to take steps to prevent pollution of the Shannon at Castleconnell. matters stand at present the health and the citizens are very much in danger, the sewerage at Castleconnell filtering in river. They had special reports on the water, and these were of such a nature to commend themselves to the serious attention of the Council.

Dr. McGrath read a report from Mr. McWeeny on the water sample taken 28th July at the intake. This contained infusoria, and bacillus coli communis, which suggestive of sewerage contamination. Coning the report he (Dr. McGrath) said it evident that the river Shannon was polluted and as such the lives of the citizens were hands of that Council.

Mr. O'Malley, C.E., said three months conference was held relative to this matter, Mr. Ryan, solicitor, got an analysis from Cameron on the water supply.

Mr. Ryan, solicitor, said that Dr. Cameron analysis showed that the contamination was very trivial character.

The Chairman—Was there any contamination?

Mr. Ryan—I am not aware.

Mr. McGrath—Where was the sample taken?

Mr. Ryan—It was taken by Dr. Ryan at Castleconnell, just above the intake.

Mr. McGrath—Was the water high at the time?

Mr. Ryan—I could not tell you.

Mr. McGrath said the two analyses that Charles Cameron and Professor McWeene different. Dr. Cameron was a chemical analysis while that of Professor McWeeny was bacteriological examination.

Mr. Barrington observed that if there was slightest possibility of contamination of the water he was sure the Council would do nothing to prevent the sewerage at Castleconnell falling into the river. If any percent sewerage existed at Castleconnell he believed was very small, as there were only two water closets connected in the village. He was very sorry there should be alarm occasioned to the citizens.

The Chairman said the Mulcair river was worse, and pollution might have been caused there. The Council, however, would be glad to do everything they could to have water sent to the citizens.

Mr. O'Malley said there was only one sewerage from Castleconnell into the river, and very little sewage passed into it from the village. already suggested a certain course to be followed but that of Mr. Ryan was adopted, and that would provide a remedy.

Mr. Ryan—The only course I suggested was to have an analysis of the water.

Mr. O'Malley—That did not remove the objection the Corporation had. There was no objection available for adopting the septic system of the sewage, but he would see if arrangements
