

Sir Edward Fitzgerald, Bart., late Lord Mayor of Cork, has received from Viscount Hayashi, on behalf of the Japanese Emperor, the diploma and insignia of a Commander of the Order of the Sacred Treasure, in recognition of his services to the Japanese Squadron during their visit in 1902.

At the Police Court to day, a man named James Fahy was charged with stabbing a man named Patrick Sheehan last night by cutting him on the hand with a knife. Accused, who alleged that he was struck with a stick by another man named McMahon, was remanded till to-morrow.

Rogers Fair on Monday was larger and better attended than the last, and prices were 2s. per cwt. more for cattle, and a halfpenny per pound for sheep. A few calves were brought in and sold well, as also did some promising yearlings. Much grumbling was indulged in with regard to pigs, a custom having grown up of forwarding to Limerick instead of keeping for the attendance of the buyers at the horse market. It is thought if the practice continues the wholesale dealers will cease visiting the town.

SAD DEATH OF MR. JEFCOAT.

Limerick citizens who know Mr. Charles Jefcoat, so long connected with the Technical Schools, will sympathise with him in the death of his brother, Mr. Albert Jefcoat, electrical engineer, of Wolverhampton. The circumstances were particularly sad. On Saturday night he and a "chum" named Darret had been visiting at a friend's house at Wednesfield, a few miles from Wolverhampton, in the heart of the "black" country, and which is intersected by canals. There was a dense fog at the time, and the two friends were asked to stay overnight. Being perfectly familiar with the district, they declined, and started to walk home. As they did not arrive that night, the canal was dragged next day, and both bodies were found in the water.

SHOCKING AFFAIR.

(BY TELEGRAPH.)

The Press Association's Tyuro correspondent telegraphs:—A shocking affair occurred on the Tregethnan estate of Lord Falmouth on Tuesday evening. About ten o'clock on Tuesday morning, Henry Osmond, of Tregerrick Mother, undertaker, left on his usual beat, taking with him his gun and dog. Osmond failed to return at night, and yesterday, on the police searching Nancy Maybn Wood, they discovered him with his gun in his hands and the dog lying at his side. The gun was damaged by a shot, which had struck the small part of the stock. Death, which must have been instantaneous, was due to a gunshot wound. The body was removed to the deceased's home, and later in the evening the police placed under arrest, at his own home, a man suffering from a severe gunshot in the hip. It is alleged that the man, who lives at Probus, returned home on Tuesday evening and called in a local doctor, who visited him again on Wednesday. The doctor mentioned that the gamekeeper was missing, when, it is alleged, the man said he was in the wood and saw the keeper. On attempting to run away the keeper fired, and he fired in return, striking the keeper. The man under arrest is badly injured, and will probably be unable to leave home for a fortnight.

ACCIDENT AT GLIN PIER.

A rather serious accident occurred yesterday at Glin pier, where the steamship "Thomond" is at present discharging a cargo of coals for the Glin District Schools. A man named Patrick Sullivan was turning his horse and cart to take a load of coals when the animal set back into the tide between the ship's starboard bow and the quay side, the tide being nearly full in. A man named Richard Fitzgerald made a gallant attempt to prevent the animal from falling in. He held on to the animal's head, and only managed to cling on to the vessel's bulwarks. The animal was rescued after a time, and sustained no injuries through her immersion.
