LANE'S ILLNESS.

(By Telegraph To-day.)

W. Lane, the jockey, passed another good night, and is progressing favourably.

may not themselves committed to the Barrington's Hospital Fete. Was there no way in which they could help them besides running a stall.

The Chairman suggested it would be a matter for the Ladies Committee.

Mr Moriarty said the solution of the matter remained for the Limerick people themselves (hear, hear). He would ask them not to have Limerick out in the cold in connection with the fete.

Father Cregan said although strongly in favour of temperance he would not like anything to be done that might be calculated to injure in any way the Fete for Barrington's Hospital, which was doing a great work locally, but saw no reason why some way out of the difficulty could not be found, and both projects made to work successfully.

The matter was referred to the next meeting of the committee.

Miss McDonnell and Mrs. Ball were appointed secretaries pro tem.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

VANMAN'S TRAGIC END.

A FALL AND FATAL PUNCTURE.

An inquest was held yesterday afternoon at Barrington's Hospital by Coroner DeCoursey into circumstances touching the death of Matthew Egan, 40, who died as the result of injuries received by a fall from a mineral water van while returning from Croom on Sunday night.

Head Constable Moore conducted the inquiry on behalf of the Crown, and Mr. J. P. Hall, solr., represented the firm of Messrs Spillane, in whose employment the deceased was.

Michael Egan, son, identified the deceased as his father. He said the deceased was generally a strong man, but of late used to complain of pains in his stomach.

Joe Hannan, van driver at Messrs Spillane's deposed to returning from Croom on Sunday, and finding that deceased had fallen off the van. The deceased told witness that he was hurt by the fall, but beyond a scratch in his forehead witness observed no other mark at the time. When witness took him from his van into his house he observed blood oozing from his trousers, and on examination found that he was injured extensively.

In reply to Head Constable Moore—Witness said the harness was suitable. Deceased was an experienced man and was sober at the time.

In reply to Mr. Hall—Witness said the horse's knees were wounded, and there was no doubt but the horse fell. He examined the harness before the journey and found it alright.

Henry Ritchie, 15 Sexton street, who was coming home on Egan's van, said that about two miles or so at this side of Croom, the backband broke, and Egan fell clear to the ground on one side. He asked deceased to get up, and receiving no answer, witness hurried after Hannan. At the time of the accident they were descending a slope at a very slow pace.

By Mr. Hall—When the backband broke the horse galloped away.

Sergeant Beatty, who examined the horse, said both its knees were cut, and on the left shaft, he found what appeared to be blood. Messrs Spillane also showed him the broken backband (produced).

The clothes of deceased were handed over to him in the hospital. In the outside coat pocket he found the clasp knife (produced), closed, and in the right side pocket of his trousers he found two screws, and two keys. One of the screws was blood stained, and in the bottom of the stomach was a wound, which would be caused by penetration by one of the screws. The shirt and trousers were all besmeared with blood.

Witness had carefully examined the trousers, drawers and shirt but could find no hole in any to correspond with the puncture in the stomach.

Mr. George Spillane, Manager of Messrs Spillane, deposed the harness produced was got about twelve months ago at O'Donnell's, William street. Deceased had orders to have defective harness repaired, as he knew the lives of the men depended on the kind of harness utilised.

Dr. Waters deposed that deceased when admitted to Barrington's was semi-comatose. He died about two hours afterwards. Witness made a post mortem. The deceased had an old standing pleurisy, and a dilated stomach; he had a punctured wound above the groin which only penetrated the skin, and another wound at the buttock which went into the spine. Witness attributed death to shock consequent on the injuries received, and subsequent exposure on the journey home.

The jury found that the deceased died on the 26th inst, and that his death was caused by shock consequent on injuries received by a fall on the 25th, and exposure, and that said fall was caused by a defective backband on the horse which he was engaged in driving.
