r Irish education. It was a most interesting leech. Mr. Wy hidhain is always interesting to reminds me of Mr. Gammon, known to his iends as "Oily Gammon," of the firm of "Quirk, ammon and Snapp," in Sam Warren's story of £10 000 a Year." But I think in cleaginous umbug the speech which he delivered on the school last April is one of his most successful florts. Speaking of these very Intermediate raminations, he says—"When we came to itel mediate Education it was wholly a syst manipulation oased satirely on

PAYMENTS BY RESULT."

n his opinion that was all that need be said in ondemnation of it, yet, would anyone suspect rom this onlig tened view that this system of ramination and payment by results is forced on his country, not only against the judgment and cool will of the people generally, but against the will of the very Commissioners of Education hemselves. And by whom? By the very lovernment of which Mr. Wyndham in Ireland, and Lord Londo derry in England and Ireland, the ministers responsible for education.

AN EXPERIMENT

was made by the Intermediate Commissioners in inspection as a means of correcting, or at least mitigating the calls of mere examinations. It has a move in the right direction; and was wisely thate as tentative in asure at first. The experiment was a success, and the Commissioners resol ed to continue it, and the next year they made a rule that every school should be in spected, and that a honus ranging from 10 to 20 per cent of the total result (see earned by each school should be paid on the report of the Inspectors. But what happened? Last year there was a partial inspection but no bonus. This year there has been neither inspection nor bonus, rule for and has although the existence, and the both is still for been tormally sanctioned Lieutenant. Lord Why has there een no examination this year? Have the Intermediate Board changed their hinds? Not at all. But Mr. Wyndham's Government has interposed and refused to sanction the appointment of Inspectors, and has Cr you the whole Intermediate system back on communitions, and in the face of this Mr. Wyndham stands up in the House of Commons to m: ke a case for a Securalist Department out of the tvis of "a system based entirely on results." It is the same through the whole extent of Irish "ducation. At the head of it we have the very Senate of which petitioned the Government to appoint a Royal Commission with a view to reform. That University, too, as you are aware, is a mere examining body. It has been condemned in terms such as, I think, were never used by an authoritative tribunal in condemnation of an educational institution and system. Since the report of the Royal Commission, the Senate of the same University, by formal resolation, have asked the Government to introduce some measure of reform that would put an end to the absurdity of imposing on the country a University that is pronounced to be wrong in principles, bad in constitution, injurious in its educational methods but it is all in vain. Mr. Windliam, under the dictation of Lord Londonder y,

THE ROYAL UNIVERSITY,

WILL RUN THAT UNIVERSITY

down the throat of this country, and let Iri heducation do as best it can. Be it so. That let him stop taking of reforming can atton, and coordinating and proclaiming his intellectual disapproval of mere examinations. On the Senate
