RITS OF HIS ANCESTORS.

By . Captaph To-day.)

Tokio, Tuesday.

eror left this morning for Shrine of t the successful conclusion of the pirits of his ancesters. a band of capable ringers, and only the ewhoremember these tunes can tell how lovely the music was. Your effort to get it again ought to meet with every encouragement for there isn't a sweeter peal in all Ireland than the famous Cathedral bells of Limerick, not even the much sung Shandon bells at Cork. If re-hanging the bells means getting them harmoniously rung or chimed again by all means let it be done, but if it is keeping on the present ringing, or nothing at all, a good many of us would vote for nothing. I remember that Mr. Siewart, Mr. Redger, Mr. Hill, Mr. Mortished, and other local gentlemen used to ring the bells. If they were made to ring again, I am sure some of these, as well as "W," Interested," and others would willingly come forward and give us once again the grand music—not clamour—of our grant, old Cachedral bells.

Yours truly,

A.J.H.

CURIOUS MIDNIGHT SCENE.

At midnight on Saturday while on duty near Baal's Bridge, Night Constable Hegarty heard a cry raised that there was a man in the river. The tide was out at the time, by there was a fairly strong current still ebbing and the Constable observed a man opposite lock Quay walking into mid-stream in the direction of the arch of the bridge. Hegarty followed the man and succeeded in bringing him alore. The adventurer whose name was Patria O'Shea, of 25 Garvey's Range, was subsequently before Alderman Molonnell, J.
