FUNERAL OF MR. STEPHEN F. DOWLING, J.P.

At noon to-day the remains of the late Mr. Stephen F. Dowling, J.P., whose sudden demise on Thursday shocked the city, were interred in Mount St. Lawrence Cemetery. Requiem High Mass, preceded by the office for the dead, was celebrated at 11 o'clock in St. Michael's Church in presence of the deceased's gentleman's relatives and a very large congregation. The celebrant of the Mass was Rev. Father Lee, C.C.; deacon, Rev. Fr. Carroll, C.C.; sub-deacon, Rev. Fr. O'Shea, C.C., and Master of Ceremonies. Immediately afterwards the casket containing the body was removed from the church to the hearse in waiting, and the funeral started for the cemetery, where the last prayers were recited by Fr. Oregan.

As it is impossible to give anything like a full list of those who attended to pay the last mark of respect, we can only say that the funeral cortege was fully representative of the whole city and county.

The chief mourners were—Jerome Dowling, Joshua Dowling, Charles Moroney (nephews); John Harrington (grand-nephew), and John Murphy (nephew-in-law). P. V. McCoy, A. Gabbett, R. Roche, J. Cusack.

The clergy present were—Rev. J. M. Cregan, Adm., St. Michael's; Rev. J. Lee, C.C., do.; Rev. J. O'Shea, C.C., Rev. J. O'Connor, C.C., Rev. Father Carroll, C.C., Rev. Father Devane, C.C., Rev. Fr. Moloney, O.F.M., Rev. Father Duhig, O.P., Rev. Father Whelan, C.S.S.R., Rev. Father Quinlan, P.P., Pallaskenry.

The funeral arrangements were carried out by Messrs P. McCarthy and Sons.

THE LONDON NEEDLEWORK GUILD.

The Countess of Dunraven wishes to acknowledge with thanks the work from her members for the above guild. She is desirous by H.R.H. the Princess of Wales to thank the contributors for their parcel of guild clothes which arrived safely, and for which Her Royal Highness is most grateful.

WILD LOOKING AND FOOLISH.

He was a wild looking individual, was Michael Walshe as he answered yesterday in the City Police Court to a charge of attempting suicide preferred by District Inspector O'Hara. His mother hearing a noise after every one had gone to bed found Michael lying on his face and hands badly cut in the throat. A knife lying near pointed to the means adopted by Michael for trying to shuffle out of existence. "Six years in India" having mentally affected him was the excuse given for the rash act, and Mr. French generously let him go on his own bail, and a promise that he would not be so foolish again.

The little dusky berries coming to us from Greece are invaluable as food. And yet because they are neglected or omitted from the daily dietary. A pound of currants contains over three times as much actual nourishment as the same weight of lean beef. In fact, the greatest scientific men of the day will prove the truth of the statement. There are people who think that they are indigestible, and that they are likely to cause disturbance in the intestines. This is a mistake. If any inconvenience has ever been caused it is certain that the fault is not in the currants, but in the method of preparation. It is not likely that anyone in his or her senses would eat currants without chewing or chopping them. Eaten in this way currants are delicious and afford rich nourishment. They render an infinite number of dishes more palatable than they otherwise would be. But the most important of all facts about them are, firstly, that they supply the body with muscle building and nerve sustaining material in a form ready for digestion and absorption—ready to go to work, so to speak. Again the delicious balance of sugar and acid in the currant makes them palatable, and palatability in food means that if not more of its value. All the currants sent to this country are seedless and without stalks, so that they may be eaten raw or cooked with safety and advantage. Properly prepared, currants are of the greatest value as food for children, and those who must live on a "diet," because the fruit affords the full nourishment required by the body without putting any tax on the organs of digestion. Currants should really be eaten every day. There is a maxim, "An apple a day, no doctor to pay." Currants contain all the beneficial elements of the apple, but in greater proportion. In Greece they appear on the table at every meal, and the men and women of Greece are noted for their health, hardihood and long life.
