got away well, and after going a couple of yards, Limerick, Commercial, and Blunhard forged slightly ahead of the others. Arriving at Barrington's Pier, Athlunkard led, and it was a race from this university, Shannon, Limerick and Blunhard. Nearing St. Michael's Boathouse, the race between Shannon and Limerick, and Blunhard was splendidly fought out. They were all bow almost up to the judges' gun when Shannon secured the verdict by two lengths being three lengths behind. The race closed yesterday's proceedings. The prizes were afterwards distributed by Mrs. Pike of the City High Sheriff.

Yesterday's Rowing.

As there was an entire absence of wind in starting the events, the second Limerick Regatta was in its way one of the most successful social events of the season. There was a continuance of the fine weather that attended the opening day, and a larger crowd than we have been accustomed to witness in the enclosure and outside. The river was thickly dotted with small boats, bringing their jocund freights, and the other side was one mass of people, interested in the races never flagged. The finer elements which conduce to a happy occasion of a function such as the City Regatta were not wanting, if we exclude the regard for punctuality shown both on Monday and Wednesday. The first event was the start at 3.30 sharp, but it was 4.15 when the boats left the stakes, and the close of the proceedings did not arrive until 8.15. The programme announced the starting time at 6.15. This was not a very convenient state of things, taking into consideration the inconvenience caused to those crews who had to get to Waterford for the regatta though it is rather late now to pour out the water on the want of time-keeping.

On going a short distance Athlunkard drew ahead, followed by St. Michael's, with Limerick, and Shannon in the rear. Rowing a close race Athlunkard appeared to be coming from Limerick until coming to St. Michael's boathouse, when erratic steering lost her, and Limerick were left to finish with little to spare. A length divided second and ascribes the phenomena to the friction of moist air against dry air. That the drops of rain in a thunderstorm are sometimes very highly electrified is shown by the occurrence of "luminous rain," when each drop emits a tiny spark just before coming into contact with the ground, which is lit up with a kind of phosphorescent glow.
