DEATH OF A LIMERICK MAN

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. J. J. Regan, Limerick, who met with a fatal accident near Kiltrush on Saturday morning, is now out of danger and making rapid progress towards complete recovery.

THE COST OF OUT-RELIEF

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

The Local Government Board Auditor, in his report on the local Board, commented strongly on the inadequate character of the reports of the officers of the Kiltrush Union. He pointed out the heavy cost of outdoor relief and the negligence on the part of officials, who do not to the slightest degree appear to realise the importance of their functions. The Guardians are four relieving officers concerned to inquire in mind the auditor's strictures, and to act accordingly.

"CARTING" NURSES

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. Donnell's fee of £1 11s. 6d. a week for the Kiltrush workhouse children during an outbreak of measles in the institution, has been given official sanction, and as this lady resides in the neighbourhood the Guardians consider it more than a land satisfactory to employ her than to send her to a Dublin hospital for a nurse; as a result the Board inelegantly put it, they are to be "carting" one down from the workhouse.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. Scanlan, Kiltrush, has taken strong measures to enforce the regular attendance of children at school, and each morning makes a round of the streets in the town as a voluntary attendance officer. The rev. gentleman has served each day leading little ones by their hands from their homes, and the sphere of his influence extends to the sphere of neglectful parents, on to the Convent

Church on the 20th inst to Nanteenan Churchyard, where the interment took place amid every manifestation of regretful sympathy, from a large representative gathering.

A DOCTOR'S RIGHTS

In answer to a query of Kiltrush Guardians, the Local Government Board wrote to say that a Dispensary Medical Officer is not strictly bound on receipt of a telegram from a warden or guardian to attend a poor person in case of urgent necessity.

A lively discussion ensued because it was alleged one doctor acted up to his rights and ignored a telegram, one member declaring that the doctor should be shot.

THE OFFICERS' NIGHT OUT

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

The application of the male officers and nurses of the Kiltrush Workhouse to be allowed an additional hour's recreation each evening was again considered at the meeting of the Board of Guardians on Saturday, and after a long discussion of a heated nature, was put to a poll, which resulted in a tie. As the Chairman had not a casting vote, no finality on the question was reached.

DISORDERLY SCENES IN WORKHOUSE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

At the Ennis Petty Sessions, before A. W. Brady, B.M., Anne Graham, a pauper, summoned for insubordination and for having assaulted a patient named Mary Flaherty by throwing a bottle at her in the Workhouse was sent to gaol for 14 days.

dates selected for examination, we find that she is a native of Limerick. Verily, for once the curse of St. Munchin failed, and the "Limerick for Limerick man" has received fillip only to be conferred by the action of a spirited body like the Select Committee.

When, in his temerity, my quondam school sent in his application for the position, he imagined that his literary qualifications entitled him to at least compete at the examination. But now, when we see that one chosen four has not half the qualifications that a schoolfellow can claim, it must be understood that the standard approved by the Select Committee is not to be attained by such mere distinctions as the gaining of Exhibition Scholarships.

Very sincerely yours,
