The average death rate for the four weeks in the twenty-two town districts registered was 21·7. The highest death rates were at Newtownards, 48·7, and Wexford, 36·8, the lowest death rates being at Armagh, 12·0, and Ballymena, 13·2.

WHAT IS A HUNTER?

The publication of the new volume of the Standard Book of the Hunters' Improvement Society reminds us that we have no recognised breed of hunters. If a man desires to produce a Shire horse or Hackney or a polo pony, he knows how to set about it. Judgment, care, and the combination of the right strains of blood produce at last the type required. But hunter-breeding, after all the century and a half of demand created by fox-hunting, is still a matter of chance.—"Country Life."

A TELEPHONE STORY.

The telephone has its dangers as well as advantages. A certain West End doctor received by the instrument in his bedroom a message in the middle of the night asking him to go at once to one of his patients. "Say I'm away," said the doctor to his wife, giving her the telephone. When he next met that patient he apologised for his absence. "Then you really were away!" said the patient. The answer was in the affirmative. "Well, I'm sorry for you," said the other; "I sympathise with you in your terrible misfortune, for I distinctly heard a man's voice in your house talking to your wife."

JACK TAR'S NEW UNIFORM.

It is officially notified that the Admiralty have decided to abolish cloth trousers, serge frocks, and drill frocks as part of the kit of petty officers and men of the fleet dressed as seamen. The order is to come into effect on August 1 next. A new pattern serge jumper with cuffs is to be supplied, with gold badges, and will be used for best uniform in place of the old serge frock.

IRISH FABRICS.

Irish poplin is in high favor among leading modistes, especially for blouses, which are worn with cloth, or cashmere skirts that match in colour exactly, says our London lady correspondent. For real hard wear there are few fabrics
