THE ASYLUM STAFF.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE. SIR.—In your issue of the 12th, reporting the meeting of the Asylum Committee, the following paragraph occurs:—"A letter was read from the married members of the staff asking to be provided with cottages at the expense of the Board."

The application which was signed by three members of the staff on behalf of the whole number, could bear no such construction in the reading of it. On the contrary so far from expecting houses at the expense of the Board, members of the Board were well aware of our intentions in that respect, as we had interviewed them on the matter.

Other Asylum employees are already living in such houses, and we were only applying on the same principle, being willing to pay a reasonable rent for them. The grounds on which these houses could be built is idle and waste land, and would in no way encroach or take from the patients in the matter of employment. The money borrowed for this purpose would be paid back after some few years, and would be finally a source of revenue to the Asylum.

As this subject is only postponed for the present, we mean to say no more on it beyond those few remarks which will show that the report is not a correct one, and we respectfully ask you, sir, in justice to the staff, to publish the foregoing.

Signed,
THE ASYLUM ATTENDANTS.

MILITARY ROAD LIGHTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE. SIR.—When the whole of the electric light, from the Crescent onwards, as it did last night, would it not be advisable to light up the gas. Last night (and night), in almost perfect darkness, the crowds from the Flaherty's Church pushed and jostled in all directions, and walking for any one was decidedly hard lines.—Yours truly,
