A San Francisco writer tells this incident of the recent catastrophe:—"I happened upon one of the victims of the fire sitting near the site of his old home, his hat pulled over his eyes, loafing and looking down over the miles of ghastly ruin where in spots the fire still smouldered. The horror was hardly more than a week old, yet presently this man fetched a deep yawn, stretching his arms abroad. 'Gee whis!' he complained, 'I wish something would happen. Mr. Leet (instructed by Messrs. Read and McNab) applied on behalf of the plaintiffs for an order appointing Mr. Oliver Fry, managing director of the company, receiver by way of equitable execution over certain money due to the defendant, a builder, by the Edenderry Rural District Council, in connection with the erection of labourers' cottages. In an affidavit Mr. Fry stated that an attendance order recently obtained against the defendant could not be served as the defendant was out of the jurisdiction, and that there was still due by the defendant to the plaintiff company on foot of judgment, the sum of £162 18s. 6d., and £9 lbs. in respect of costs. The action was brought for the price of a quantity of slates supplied to the defendant, to whom a considerable sum is at present owing to the Edenderry Council.

Mr. Leet asked his lordship to give a receiver order and to allow them to serve by registered letter on the defendant's wife.

Mr. Justice Wright said there was no affidavit before him that would justify him in doing that, but he would grant the receiver order sought.

Mr. Leet—We will take the order appointing Mr. Fry, receiver, and wait till this gentleman comes back.

No reason can be attained, but a correspondent who saw Rossa at Queenstown says:—"It was impossible to refrain from thoughts on the presence of Rossa at Queenstown to-night, as compared with his visit of only a short time since. Then he was received with all the warmth that his Irish admirers were capable of. To-night he sat alone, save for the presence of one old-time friend, who never wavered in his allegiance. Yesterday morning Rossa landed unheralded and alone, with no one to bid him welcome. THEATRE ROYAL.

A NEW PLAY.

On Monday next, Mr. Cyril Keightley, long associated with Mr. F. R. Benson, makes his re-appearance, when he will bring "Myles Carew, Highwayman," which recently been performed at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, and now occupies the stage of the Opera House, Cork. It has been enthusiastically received in both towns. In "Myles Carew" interest never flags, and the authors have upon an entirely novel feature, which is described as the very effective overlap of the end of the second act and the beginning of the third act, which is absolutely unique in the annals of stage craft. Mr. Keightley's meritorious performances during his four seasons with Mr. F. R. Benson need no recommendation here, suffice to say his "Macbeth," "Richard III," and "Richard II" in "Richard III" stand out as the highest embodiment of actor's art. Mr. Keightley will be supported by Miss Haidie Gunn, of Dublin, and Miss Benson, mainly Bensonians. "The School for Scandal" will be staged on Tuesday, and "School for Scandal" on Wednesday. A hearty welcome will be accorded to the actor-managers on his re-appearance.
