POLICE AND IRISH FOOLSCAP.

A statement having been conveyed to the Committee that the Irish Police could not use Irish foolscap, inquiries were made on the subject, and the following reply was received from the Royal Irish Constabulary Office, Dublin Castle.

7th May, 1908.

"Sir—In reply to your letter of the 5th I beg to inform you that the statement that members of the Royal Irish Constabulary prevented by the Regulations from using Irish foolscap for official purposes is without any foundation.

"I am, sir, your obedient servant,

"A. GAMBELL,

"Assistant Inspector General

"P. O'Brien, Esq.,

"Limerick Industrial Association."

THE INDUSTRIAL CAMPAIGN.

The deputation which attended at Ballybraddagh and Crecora reported having had most successful meetings in both places. Arrangements were made for a continuation of the open air meeting for Sundays.

THE IRISH LIGHTS ACT.

The attention of cyclists and others is respectfully directed to the fact that Irish acetylene can be easily procured, and the Committee trusts that as a large amount of this article will be used, the merchants will stock the home-made article. An excellent material is produced at Askeaton Factory, which deserves the support and encouragement of every one interested in Irish industry.

THE NEW PATENTS ACT.

This important Act was discussed at considerable length, and as the Committee believe the results of the Act will be of far-reaching consequences as regards Ireland, the Secretary was directed to obtain every possible information on the subject. As the immediate effect will be that foreign manufacturers have patent rights to protect will carefully consider the most suitable places in Great Britain and Ireland to erect factories, it was suggested a conference of the public bodies in Limerick should be called together for the purpose of collecting useful data to be placed before the commercial bureaux.

The Association made a strong appeal to customers to purchase Irish candles.
