STREET BETTING IN THE CITY.

Prosecution at the Petty Sessions.

At the City Petty Sessions yesterday, Edward Daly and John Cronin were summoned under the Street Betting Act of 1903 for loitering on the streets, on the 6th inst., for the purposes of betting.

Constable Doyle said he was, on plain clothes duty, and found the two defendants at Griffin's Bow, off Catherine street. He saw them talking to somebody, and becoming suspicious he arrested the defendants and brought them to William street police barrack.

Mr. O'Donnell, solr., said he would shorten the case by admitting that the defendants were there, and that they put themselves entirely in the hands of the magistrates.

Mr. Sullivan—You plead guilty. Mr. O'Donnell—Yes, sir. District Inspector White said this street betting in Limerick was terrible, all these people betting with their shillings.

Mr. O'Donnell said the maximum penalty was £20, but the magistrates had a very large discretion in dealing with the case. The men admitted they had a book, they had a small book it was the St. Leger week. They had it that the Earl of Derby had 10,000 to one on a horse, and it looked with regard to betting there should be one law for the rich and another for the poor. He was not there to say the law was wrong, but at any rate they felt all the excitement of the greatest racing week of the year in England. It was a week when half England went to Doncaster and three fourths of the people bet on the St. Leger. The defendants had a book, it was true, but thirty shillings would not pass through their hands in a month.

District Inspector White said the book found by the police dealt with transactions as far back as April.

Mr. O'Donnell asked the magistrates to deal leniently with the case.

District Inspector White said Daly was prosecuted in 1904, and fined £5, the fine being reduced by Judge Adams to five shillings.

Mr. Roche asked if the defendants were the agents of others.

District Inspector White said he did not know. He did not think Daly was.

Mr. O'Donnell—Is not Cronin a pig driver? Constable Doyle—He is sometimes employed at that. Daly acts for himself.

CO. LIMERICK TRAGEDY

The Inquest.

Abbeysfeale, Friday.

Yesterday Coroner Ambrose, Newcastle West, held an inquest at Ratoashill, Templeglantine, touching the death of a farmer named John Sexton, who lost his life as a result of violence at the hands of some unknown parties, at a place called Strand, situated between Tournafulla and Newcastle West, in this police district, but in the Petty Sessions district of Newcastle West. In connection with the affair the police here under Head Constable Hogan, have been investigating the matter, and as a result five young men of the farming class were arrested last evening.

The principal witness at the inquest yesterday was Denis Reidy, a servant man of the deceased, who stated he and John Sexton were engaged saving hay on Sunday last, and called to a house near Strand on their way home to Ratoashill, in the Templeglantine district. Shortly after leaving the house a number of men attacked them. Witnesses saw Sexton lying on the road, and was then attacked himself by three of the party but got away. Returning he found Sexton unconscious, and some time afterwards procured a car on which he brought him home.

Dr. McArthur, Abbeysfeale, who made a post-mortem examination of deceased, found a wound on the right temple, and another over the left. Death occurred from hemorrhage of the brain.

The prisoners were subsequently taken before Mr. T. Hurley, J.P.

Formal evidence of arrest having been given by Head Constable Hogan and Sergeant Boyle, the prisoners were remanded.

Magisterial Proceedings at Newcastle West.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. Thomas Hurley, J.P., presided at a special Court held late on Thursday evening, to inquire into the charge against five young men of the farming class. "That on Sunday, 4th September, 1910, they did waylay, attack, and assault one John Sexton, of Ratoashill West, from the effects of which he died on the 7th inst."

Mr. John Condon, solicitor, said he appeared for one of the accused named Michael Reidy.

Mr. P. T. Liston, solicitor, said he appeared for the other four.

Mr. P. Beirne, D.I., in the absence of Mr. McCoy, D.I., Abbeysfeale, in whose district the crime was committed, presided.

The names of the young men arrested are Cornelius Magner, Thos. Magner, Patrick Magner, James Ambrose, and Michael Reidy, all residing in or near Killeedy.

Mr. Beirne said the charge was one of murder, and all he proposed doing that evening was to give evidence of arrest, as he had no time since he learned he was to act in the case.

Mr. Condon said he was not to be taken as acquiescing in the charge of murder or any charge.

Mr. Liston, solicitor, said he also should act similarly.

Mr. Hurley said he was placed in this position, that the proceedings were purely formal, and he would not be placed in any difficult position.

Mr. Condon said that as the inquiry progressed it would transpire that from the nature of the evidence there would be no difficulty with the view to bail.

Matthew Hogan, Head-Constable, Abbeysfeale, examined, deposed to the arrest of Cornelius Magner, Thomas Magner, and Patrick Magner at the same time in their own house at Killahilly, and having stated the charge to each of being "one of a party who waylaid and assaulted one John Sexton, from the effects of which he died on the 7th, the assault having been committed on the 4th inst." Pat Magner said: "I know nothing at all about it." Thomas Magner said: "I know nothing at all about it." Cornelius Magner said: "I say the same." James Ambrose said: "I was in Strand. I suppose I was over till about 9 o'clock. I never did anything. I don't care if all the police in Ireland came," and when examining his face, on which there was a scratch, he said: "he got that in Strand on Sunday."

Witness stated he saw the dead body of John Sexton about 7 p.m. at his house on the 7th inst. Sergeant Doyle deposed to the arrest of Mr. Reidy at his father's house at Glenguin, and after being questioned he said "I know nothing about this man"; on arriving at the Strand with the prisoner he noticed a mark on the back of his hand, and prisoner said "I got that mark on the back of my hand on Tuesday last when putting a car on a horse."

Mr. Condon and Mr. Liston both strongly applied for the discharge of the accused, as there was not a tittle of evidence adduced against them.

Mr. Beirne said he could inform the court that there would be evidence forthcoming, even if they adjourned for a day. He said he had no time to have matters further advanced, but he only asked for an adjournment to any day that would suit them, and all agreed to Tuesday, 13th inst., at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Hurley stated the court was adjourned to Tuesday, 13th, at 10 o'clock.

CITY PETTY SESSIONS

STOP

(Before the Mayor, Mr. James H. Roche, Mr. E. J. Daly, and Mr. P. D. Sullivan, R.M.)

UNSTAMPED MEASURES.

Honour O'Dwyer, publican, Park Bridge, was summoned by Sergeant Kennedy, Inspector, Drugs and Food Act, for having two unjust measures, and also for having a four-ounce weight which was unstamped.

Mr. Nash said the measures were not in use and that they were hanging up in the shop. The unstamped weight had been stamped since.

The magistrates dealt with the case by cautioning the defendant.

Mr. Nash asked to have the four-ounce weight and the two unjust measures returned to his client.

Mr. Sullivan said the magistrates could hardly do that. The defendant had been very leniently dealt with.

Mr. Nash said he was quite aware of that, but copper was a valuable metal, and the measures were worth seven shillings. Besides there had been no conviction.

Mr. Sullivan said that with regard to that the magistrates could reconsider their decision and impose a nominal fine.

Sergeant Kennedy said the defendant had pleaded that the measures were not needed.

The Mayor said the magistrates, if Mr. Nash persisted, would reconsider their decision, impose a small fine, and declare the measures forfeit. The measures were declared forfeit ultimately by consent.

BAIL-PLAYING.

Two youths named Christopher Collins and James Edwards, newboys, were summoned by Constable Keelehan for playing handball on Sunday evening in Catherine Street. There were seven or eight of them engaged.

Mr. Sullivan asked if the case was the first of its kind.

District Inspector White answered in the negative. There were frequent complaints, and every newsboy in the town had been cautioned to no purpose.

A fine of 6d and costs was imposed.

CYCLING ON THE FOOTPATH.

John Murphy, who did not appear, was summoned for cycling on the footpath at 8.20 a.m.

The accused was cautioned.

CHILD MAINTENANCE.

Cornelius Collins was summoned by Sergeant Conroy to show cause why he should not contribute towards the maintenance of his child, a boy, who had been sent to an industrial school.

Sergeant Conroy said there was a sum of 36s. due by the defendant, who refused to pay anything.

Defendant pleaded inability to pay through want of employment.

Sergeant Conroy said Collins was fond of drink. He would ask the magistrates to give a warrant for distraint.

Defendant said he had nothing to pay with, and he had no goods.

Sergeant Conroy rejoined that if he got the warrant he would exercise discretion in using it. The magistrates made an order to obtain payment.

GLIN PETTY SESSIONS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

These sessions were held on Thursday, before Dr. McDonnell in the chair; Messrs. S. Pegum, and Francis Fitzgerald, the latter taking the chair on the retirement of the Chairman from the District Council cases.

DRUNKENNESS.

Some cases of drunkenness were disposed of on fines varying from 2s 6d to 5s and costs.

OBSTRUCTION.

Sergeant Butler summoned William Quaid for obstructing the streetway by having a cart across it.

Defendant was fined 1s. and costs.

Some complainant summoned John Enright for allowing a donkey to wander along the public road without anyone in charge. Fined 1d. and costs.

LICENSING CASE.

Sergeant Courtney conducting, in the absence of the District Inspector, summoned Thomas Houlihan for a breach of the Licensing Act on the 7th August, and Mrs. Mary Jones for being on the premises.

Constable Madden deposed that at ten minutes past eleven on Sunday, 7th August, he saw three or four men going into Jones's, and then Mrs. Jones came out and went into Mrs. Houlihan's licensed premises. He went towards the house, but she was out before he arrived. She had apparently something under her shawl. He asked her what she wanted in Houlihan's, and she said she went in for a loaf of bread.

Mrs. Houlihan swore that Mrs. Jones came in for bread, but they had none. Mrs. Jones got no drink or anything else out of the house, nor did she ask for any drink.

Mrs. Jones gave similar evidence.
