ADDRESSES

TO THE

ELECTORS OF L

ELECTORS OF LIMERICK—

At the request of some of your most forward again to seek your suffrages, and to invite this all that is best in Irish Nationality to shake off the trammes and to take its rightful place in a Movement which is str people, and for the salvation of the National cause.

What is the record of the Irish Party? They have ki they have passed a cruel and iniquitous Budget; they over-taxation of Ireland; they have strangled an impor responsible for the screwing on thousands of Irish Traders (the precursor of Form IV), which is meant to prepare th existence; they have connived at the Re-valuation of li begun in a neighbouring City, and which will in a few Limerick.

They have, in a word, made themselves the tools of the to plunder and beggar Ireland.

But, worse than all, they have made themselves p which is without precedent or parallel.

A Liberal Government has refused to make Home election. Mr. Asquith would not even consent to mention treated with such contempt. The Government are pledged pass Home Rule, but to erect a new House of Lords wh barrier to Home Rule than the existing Chamber. No obtained from THE KING. Mr. Redmond called this a ' that is the policy which the Irish Party are now supportin has been handed over to the very men who have placed eyes of the world. Mr. Joyce asks to be returned to Pe form a pliant joint in the despised tail of the Liberal Party

If the Budgeteers are sent to Parliament what will the demand the Repeal of Mr. Lloyd George's Robber Budg Restoration of Land Purchase? Will they insist on Ire financial burdens which are crushing her to the earth? D eadge for places, to obey the crack of the Liberal Whip, to chair with him, and to carry out Mr. Asquith's comman ever inflicted on the Irish Cause? Was such an insult eve Were the National instincts of the Irish people ever so cru

In coming before you to solicit the honour of represe Parliament, I am the humble standard-bearer of a noble cau of WOLFE TONE, LORD EDWARD, THOMAS I SMITH O'BRIEN, ISAAC BUTT, and CHARLES STE upholding the doctrines of a broad and generous Irish
