CAPPOQUIN REGATTA.

The Cappoquin annual regatta was held yesterday on the Blackwater, and was a fixture in every way enjoyable. Although somewhat late in the season the event did not suffer from lack of entries, some of the best Southern crews competing. Limerick was represented by Shannon and Athlunkard, who accounted for three events, Shannon being somewhat unfortunate here as in their engagements earlier in the season. Athlunkard captured three races, winning the second senior fours, the senior fours, and senior eights in decisive fashion.

ATHENÆUM PICTUREDROME.

The Athenæum Picturedrome continues to attract large audiences every night, and to provide healthy amusement for the public. Last night a select series of pictures were shown, quite up to date in every respect, and a revelation in their way. They were beautifully coloured, vivid, clear, and rich. It is no exaggeration to say that the craze for picture houses is, if anything, on the increase, and this has been exemplified by the extent of the audiences which patronize the Athenæum night after night. This is a show undoubtedly worthy of popular support, and it is pleasant to know that the citizens are appreciating the very enterprising methods of the management.

SHOCKING TRAGEDY.

A shocking tragedy occurred yesterday morning at Sheepcote lane, Battersea Park road, a dustman's wife, aged about 30, her two sons, aged nine and five, and two daughters, aged two years and six months, being found suffering from wounds in their throats, alleged to have been inflicted with a table-knife. All five were removed to hospital, where the woman is also being treated for poisoning. The neighbours were attracted to the house by screams. The husband left for work some hours previously. It was stated at the hospital that the woman and the two daughters were in a critical condition. The two boys are progressing favourably. The rooms were in a state of disorder and blood was bespattered about the bed and floor. Mrs. Fox was sitting on the bed bleeding from a wound in the throat, and a bottle which had contained spirits of salts was found close by.

MOTORISTS AND THE PUBLIC.

The Standard says—It is highly important from every point of view that the relations of the motoring world with the general public should be entirely cordial, and we hope that all car-owners will take note of the highly reasonable request of clergymen that more consideration should be shown in passing roadside churches during the hours of service. It is urged that between the hours of 11 and 1 and 6.30 and 8 speed should be reduced, and the horn should not be used, except in case of absolute necessity, while the car is passing places of worship.
