

...especially in the body of the nurse, where the Matron has brought the male inmates to take great interest in the cleanliness of their wards. The supply of clothing and bedding generally appears to be good and sufficient, but much of the sheeting is too short for the beds. A dozen wire mattresses are required in the infirmary to replace those that are worn out. The beef supplied is coarse and unfit for making beef tea for the infirmary patients. Only one case of beef is taken. The drainage system should be thoroughly examined with a view of carrying out repairs that are necessary in order to prevent the choking of drains, which occurs at times. The masonry and pipe sewers are not well connected, with the result that leakages take place, and the sanitary condition of the workhouse cannot, therefore, be considered satisfactory. The pan of the water closet attached to St. Mary's female infirmary ward is cracked and leaks. All the workhouse yards require graveling. Their surfaces are rough and uneven, and in wet weather retain water, and are consequently very dirty. The chimney stack of the boiler house needs strengthening. The floor of the male infirmary day room requires to be relaid in concrete. The floor of the passage to St. Catherine's female ward needs much repair, and the floor of the female lunatic ward requires mending. The window frames of the latter ward and in St. Joseph's and St. Michael's infirmary wards are rotten and the sashes bad. The glass frequently falls out of them. All the double and single gates between the several yards are very old and rickety, and should be replaced by new ones, in order to maintain proper classification. The gate leading from the front to the men's yard should also be replaced with a view to the security of the premises. Internal painting and colouring of the infirmaries are much needed; the internal effect in these departments is not so pleasing as in the body of the house, where much has been done in this respect. Shelters should be provided in the grounds for the six male and three female consumptive patients. The female consumptive ward adjoins the women's day room, and opens into it, consequently there is no proper isolation of the consumptive patients. A sealed chimney in St. Joseph's Ward weeps considerably, and should be filled up in order to secure a good atmosphere in the ward. The bath in St. Mary's female ward is very old and dirty. It should be replaced by a new one. The cupolas of the workhouse buildings let in rain, and should be made staunch. The children's isolation ward should be kept cleaner and brighter. A folding screen should be provided in the maternity ward for the use of the nurse. A supply of new oil cloths much needed for the floors of the infirmaries. The walls and woodwork of the infirmaries are much in need of attention. The Visiting Committee met and reported only three times during the past half-year, and attention is directed to the requirements of Article 59 of the Workhouse Rules in this respect. The committee should inquire into the very large consumption of coal in the workhouse and see if a substantial reduction in the quantity used might not be made.

Kilmallock Fairs Question

Letters to Board of Guardians

THE SUGGESTED CONFERENCE

DISCUSSION AT FRIDAY'S MEETING

At the meeting of the Kilmallock Board of Guardians on Friday, Mr. John Kearney, V.C., presiding, the Assistant Clerk (Mr. O'Sullivan) said that in response to the Board's resolution with regard to the fairs question, the following letters had been received:

"Kilmallock, 1st January, 1911.

"DEAR SIR—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 23rd of December last, enclosing a copy of a resolution of your District Council re Kilmallock Fairs, and, in reply, I am directed to inform you that my committee (the Kilmallock Improvement Committee), having carefully considered the question of the holding of the fairs as far back as June, 1910, decided that the Fair Green is the proper place to hold them, knowing that it would be detrimental to hold them in the streets, and accordingly they threw open the gates at that time to give entry to the Fair Green, free of charge, to both buyers and sellers. They have done that since, and will continue to do so in the future.—Yours faithfully,

"JAMES W. JOYCE, Hon. Sec."

"Lord Edward-street, Kilmallock; 1st January, 1911.

"DEAR SIR—I am in receipt of your letter of the 23rd ultimo forwarding me a copy of a resolution adopted by the District Council, suggesting a conference between members of their body, members of the Fairs' Committee, and members of the New Improvement Committee, to be held at the Boardroom of the Workhouse on the 2nd inst. with a view to coming to an arrangement as to where the fairs are to be held in future. In reply to same, I beg to say, on behalf of the New Improvement Committee, that in their opinion no useful purpose can now be served by a meeting of such a conference, when a settlement of the whole question of the management of the fairs and the Fair Green was not alone possible, but actually arrived at, the settlement was abruptly, if not rudely and contemptuously repudiated within a week by the Fairs' Committee. The place of holding the fairs is only part of a large and important question of vital interest to the whole community, and when this latter is settled the former will settle itself. Steps are now being taken for that purpose, and it is expected that the issue will soon be decided. I desire at the same time to ask that you will assure the Council that my Committee fully appreciate the friendly spirit which prompted the suggestion of a conference, and it is with regret they have arrived at the conclusion that for the reasons given they cannot take part in it.—Yours faithfully,

"J. W. A. LYNCH, Hon. Sec., New Improvement Committee."

Mr. Walsh asked what would be the result if the conference were held.

Mr. Carroll—Surely, if the representatives of the people and the representatives of the other committees came together a settlement could be effected as to where the fairs are to be held.

Mr. Walsh said that our body would not agree to that conference.

Mr. Carroll—If they came together and effected a settlement, and that the facts in connection with the settlement were posted throughout the district, I am sure that the public would comply with their suggestions.

The Chairman asked what action would the Board now take in the matter.

Mr. Bennett said that he passed through Kilmallock four or five times a week, and he never heard anything about the fairs except what he saw in the reports in the newspapers of the proceedings of the Cattle Trade Association in Cork.

Mr. Carroll said that it looked as if law suits were pending in connection with the matter, and it would, therefore, not be wise for the Board to further interfere. He was of opinion that the Board were not in possession of the full facts of the case when they made an order suggesting the Conference.

The Chairman—Under these circumstances it would be better to take no action on those letters.

This course was agreed to.

Mr. Carroll said that he would like to have some information with regard to the references that were made to the beef. The Master said that they got a supply twice a week, and if the beef tea was taken out of the forequarter it would not look so nice, but they had to do that.

Mr. Birrane inquired if the master had any complaints to make about the beef.

The Master—No sir, I took the doctor in when I heard about this report, and showed him the Christmas meat, and he approved of it.

Mr. Carroll said that was very satisfactory. The master could not have done anything else in the matter.

The Chairman said that was so. He took immediate action.

It was decided to refer the report to the House Committee for consideration.

The L. G. Board also wrote forwarding the report to their inspector, Miss Fitzgerald Kenney, regarding the children boarded out or hired out in the Union under the provisions of the Pauper Children (Ireland) Acts, 1898, to 1902, and requesting that the Guardians should give their careful consideration to the several matters adverted to in the report.

In the course of her report Miss Fitzgerald Kenney stated that there were 30 children placed out at nurse by the Guardians of the Kilmallock Union. It might be generally stated that with the exception of those in Relieving Officer John Peore's district, the homes in that union were satisfactory. But in Relieving Officer Peore's district there was very little attempt made by any foster parent to properly attend to the nurse children. She should, however, state that there was an exception to that rule—Mrs. Herlihy; still her circumstances were exceptionally good, and she could be trusted to discharge her duty towards her nurse child as a matter of course. The work of supervision in that district was not done by Relieving Officer Peore with anything like the attention which should be bestowed upon it. She (the Inspector) attributed that to two causes—the Relieving Officer gave himself no trouble to enforce a proper degree of cleanliness and care on the part of his foster parents, and his eyesight is seemed to be very bad. Relieving Officer Cronin's work was on the whole very good. Relieving Officer Coll had only one child to supervise. That district was one which she would advise should be made more use of, and that future nurse children should be boarded in it. To attain that end an advertisement might be inserted in the local papers stating the willingness of the Guardians to board out there. Relieving Officer O'Donnell's work might be better done. He should take more trouble and see particularly that the child Quinn was kept in a more cleanly state. Relieving Officer Barry's work appeared to be fairly well done. With the exception of Relieving Officer Coll, who had to attend a funeral of a near relative, she had interviewed all the relieving officers of the Union, and had personally drawn their attention to the responsible nature of their work amongst the children. She therefore hoped that she would find at her next inspection very considerable improvement in the manner in which that duty was discharged. The maintenance allowance had recently been increased for the nurse children, and so far as she had been able to learn, the Guardians were most anxious to make adequate provision for them. Nevertheless complaints were general as to the supply of clothes allowed. She found, however, that that had been due entirely to a want of discretion on the part of the relieving officers, as their applications for clothes for the nurse children were never refused by the Guardians. She thought in future that it might be more satisfactory if a sum, in accordance with the age of each child were to be allowed for clothes, and receipts for the payment for these handed to the Relieving Officers. A scale of payment for clothes which worked well in many Unions was the following—Children up to five years of age, 2s a year; five to ten years, 3s a year; ten to twelve years,

DEAR MR. For some time past this clock, which is supposed to give correct time for the information of the public, is anything but reliable. Many people, who, having completed their shopping in town, depend on this timepiece to guide them in order to catch their trains, are disappointed, as it is, on several occasions, stopped, and on other occasions the time indicated is far from being accurate. I trust that this little line will be sufficient to make matters right.—Respectfully yours, of ladies had been appointed in Kilmallock to supervise the nurse children. Such a committee would be of the greatest assistance to the Guardians and to the relieving officers in their work among the children. She would also draw earnest attention to the fact that in many instances a diet, consisting very largely of bread and tea, was the one most greatly favoured. That, doubtless, was in part due to the little preparation it involved, but as a food for growing children it was difficult to conceive one that was worse or more injurious in its results. She would urge that the guardians might insist that a meal of oatmeal meal should be provided at least once a day for all children in

The committee should inquire into the very large consumption of coal in the workhouse and see if a substantial reduction in the quantity used might not be made.

Kilmallock Fairs Question

Letters to Board of Guardians

DISCUSSION AT FRIDAY'S MEETING

At the meeting of the Kilmallock Board of Guardians on Friday, Mr. John Kearney, V.C., presiding, the Assistant Clerk (Mr. O'Sullivan) said that in response to the Board's resolution with regard to the fairs question, the following letters had been received:

"Kilmallock, 1st January, 1911.

Mr. Walsh asked what would be the result if the conference were held.

Mr. Carroll—Surely, if the representatives of the people and the representatives of the other committees came together a settlement could be effected as to where the fairs are to be held.

Mr. Walsh said that our body would not agree to that conference.

Mr. Carroll—If they came together and effected a settlement, and that the facts in connection with the settlement were posted throughout the district, I am sure that the public would comply with their suggestions.

The Chairman asked what action would the Board now take in the matter.

Mr. Bennett said that he passed through Kilmallock four or five times a week, and he never heard anything about the fairs except what he saw in the reports in the newspapers of the proceedings of the Cattle Trade Association in Cork.

Mr. Carroll said that it looked as if law suits were pending in connection with the matter, and it would, therefore, not be wise for the Board to further interfere. He was of opinion that the Board were not in possession of the full facts of the case when they made an order suggesting the Conference.

The Chairman—Under these circumstances it would be better to take no action on those letters.

This course was agreed to.
