

ion which was... and passed unanimously... members of the Kildysart Board of Guardians, hereby place on record our strong opinion that Michael Kearney, at present in prison in connection with the Carrigan riot should be discharged; all the other parties convicted in that connection have already been released; against others the Crown have entered a nolle prosequere. We think his release would tend towards the peace of the county, and that his continued imprisonment is unfair. That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Lord Lieutenant, the Chief Secretary, the members of Parliament, and to the Press.

National Health Insurance

THE CONTRIBUTION CARDS.

The attention of employers is again drawn to the fact that contribution cards will in future be current for a period, approximately, of half a year, instead of, as formerly, for a quarter. Special cards for persons holding certificates of exemption will in future be supplied direct by the National Health Insurance Commission, Dublin, to those persons, and not to their employers.

A MORNING BACK.

"Every Picture tells a Story."

A dull dragging ache in the small of the back will tell on the healthiest man or woman. And if the kidneys fail in their task of filtering uric acid poisons from the blood, it leads to painful attacks of neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, gravel, headaches—to worrying attacks of dizziness, nervousness, heart palpitation, scanty, painful and too frequent urination.

Don't neglect weak kidneys. There is danger of running gradually into dropsy, Bright's disease or diabetes. At the first sign of back-ache or disorders of the urine, use Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

The beneficial effects of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are often found after the first box or two—the bladder acts more freely and without pain, the water in dropsy is released, and the uric acid deposits in rheumatic patients are disposed of. Other cases are harder to treat because they have been neglected longer; but Doan's Pills have been successful in even advanced cases of dropsy, stone, lumbago, rheumatism, and inflammation of the kidneys and bladder. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are convenient and pleasant to take, and are guaranteed absolutely free from any harmful ingredients whatever.

In 2s 6d boxes only, 6 boxes best. Never sold loose. Of all chemists and stores, or from Foster McClellan Co., 8, Wells-street, Oxford-street, London, W. Beware substitutes.

Chairman—Pardon done here before, and you did not say it was wrong.

Mr. White—I did not say it was right.

Chairman—This young lady comes from Kildysart. Mr. Crosse might know something about it.

Mr. Crosse—I understand she will not accept £20 a year.

The Chairman said her provisional appointment would have money, but Mr. White maintained that it would be irregular, and it was therefore ordered to readvertise.

Mrs. Ryan—We can't be very liberal with other people's money.

The Clerk reported that Mrs. Godfrey Massy's gift of a brougham belonging to the late General Massy, and used by him while attending the meetings of the Guardians, had been delivered during the week. It was a fine vehicle and very little used. A committee of the Guardians inspected it, and expressed their appreciation of Mrs. Massy's kindness.

Mr. Lacey, Engineer, forwarded a certificate for payment of £200 6s 11d to settle the account of Messrs. Edmundson, the contractors, and of a sum of £11 6s 10d for extras ordered by the master and electrician.

The Clerk said the items should be checked at a meeting of the Lighting Committee.

Mr. Hanly said the amount for extras was large.

Chairman—We may expect an increase of rates in the next estimate.

It was decided to hold the next meeting of the Lighting Committee on Thursday at one o'clock, and that meantime the master should check the items and report to the committee.

Funeral of Miss Winnie O'Flynn, Abbeyfeale

FROM HER CORRESPONDENT.

The death of Nurse Winnie O'Flynn, of Craigue, Abbeyfeale, at the early age of 23, has touched with deep regret not only the very large circle of relatives, who keenly mourn her premature demise, but all familiar with the endearing qualities which made her the general favourite that she was amongst all classes. Deceased was attached to the nursing staff of the Cork-street Hospital, Dublin, where her genial and kindly disposition is sadly missed. Her last moments were consoled by the assiduous ministrations of Rev. Father Moriarty, C.C. Duagh, who administered to her the last holy rites. The funeral from St. Mary's Parish Church, Abbeyfeale, on the 3rd inst., was extremely large. The officiating clergy were—Rev. J. Beazley, P.P.; Rev. Father Moriarty, C.C.; Very Rev. Canon Lee, P.P. The chief mourners were:—John O'Flynn (brother), Misses Hannah and Eily O'Flynn (sisters), John O'Flynn, John J. Barrett (uncles), Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. O'Flynn (aunts), John, Hannah, Eily O'Flynn, Dan, Timothy, Bridget and Nora Horan, John and Mary Murphy, John Connor, Timothy and Mary Scallan, Mrs. C. Casey, Mrs. T. J. O'Connell, Joe and Birdie O'Connell, P. Lyons, M. Barrett and K. Barrett (cousins). It would be impossible to give a list of those who attended the funeral.

Irish Judge Retires

Judge Ayde Curran, County Court Judge for King's County, has retired from the Judicial Bench. The duties of the position will be temporarily discharged by Mr. Walsh, K.C., and a permanent appointment will be made later on. With the exception of the Lord Chief Baron the retiring Judge is the oldest occupant of the Bench in Ireland. Judge Curran is one of the two survivors amongst the counsel who appeared for the defence in the famous State trials of 1881, when Parnell and others were arraigned. The late County Court Judge Adams, it may be recalled, was also one of the counsel for the defence on that memorable occasion.

to admit friend Joe except he was a tide traveller daughter?

Mr. Bennett—What is your definition, bona-fide-traveller?

Witness—He must have slept beyond three-mile limit, and must walk three miles to be served with a drink.

Mr. Bennett—Can you go for the purpose getting drink?

Witness—You must have some bus besides much laughter. He knew Power was working for farmers, and asked if he was a traveller, and he replied that he was.

Stephen Power was then examined by Fox—What are you? I am soldiering, sailing for 31 years, and latterly when a job I take it as a casual labourer with farmers and others; O'Grady asked me if I was a traveller, and I said yes, that I slept at, but I had slept at Charleville.

Mr. Reid, D.K.—Why did you tell the stable that you slept at Elin? Anything good enough to tell him for he would believe you. I worked at Sir Gilbert Gull's the previous day, and came to town, and back about six o'clock.

What did you do then? Of course we went ourselves and went to a "pub" daughter went to Charleville because I was put on my landlady for booze; I am at perfect liberty to go anywhere and travel back next day long as I don't travel with the intention getting drink.

Mr. Fox—There is no case proved against at all, and he (Power) has discharged the cast on him by proving that he is a traveller and he has proved it.

The Chairman said they were of opinion the case against the publican failed, as recently Power falsely represented himself as a traveller. The people so representing themselves caused great trouble to the public, and some time ago the magistrates adopted a resolution that anyone found falsely representing himself would be severely dealt with.

The feeling of the Court was that Power did and that he should be severely punished. Power said he had got two summonses that day and one should run with the other. He had been 7 days in gaol in default of for drunkenness.

A fine of 5s was now imposed or the alternative of 7 days' imprisonment. The Chairman remarked that if Power tried on the last day he would have got 11s.

Sergeant Quirke said that Power's complaint was that if the cases were tried together the warrants would run concurrently. The case against the publican was missed.

Daniel O'Keefe, Charleville, was charged with working a horse at Kilmallock while the animal was suffering from sores.

T. Manahan, Manager of the British Petroleum Rock Oil Company, was charged with permitting the cruelty.

Constable Mahoney stated that he saw O'Keefe driving two horses, the property of the Rock Oil Company; he examined the horses and found nine sores on the left one sore on the right breast about the size of a five shilling piece, raw and red, and below, raw and red, one on the left about the size of a shilling piece, raw and red, and on the right arm a sore two inches, raw and red, and on the mane, where the collar of the horse worked the horse and he said he could not work it, that there was a difficulty in getting in consequence of the strike in Dublin.

Witness—Yes; against the same man the same company.

Were the sores bleeding? No, but the collar was broken.

Mr. Roche—And the harness was against the sores? Yes; I sent him a harness maker who chambered it, and I think I was justified in allowing him to go home though I did it.

Chairman—Does the manager want anything?

Mr. Manahan said the only thing was the collar was chambered, the weight
