

v T. F. Abbott, meeting to Mr.

idence, Mount after a lengthy for some years Council as a Deceased who gineer by trade, and very popular or children in the has not met with various Boards of d that the board- to institutional lians are anxious the purpose of a et eventually go

CASHEL.

Archbishop of following changes O'Dwyer, Adm. white. Rev. J. C.C., Tipperary. ose, to be C.C., tek, to be C.C., e his declaration igh Sheriff for the O'Donnell, solr., the same time clared as Under as appointed Mr arning Officer.

ALTY.

MARRIAGE AT.

3. youngest daughter D.L. Ballyvonare, lis, Co. Cork, was ry 17th to Captain ent, at Doneraile, the Very. Rev. ho was given away ury, Ballyvonare, nite brocade. She id, her niece, Miss omingly dressed in ack picture hat, racolet, the gift of J. Harold-Barry, t man. After the returned to Bally- ide's mother and er in the afternoon ft for London, en

Home Rule. He argued that in Bethnal Green and Poplar civil war was never mentioned. It was the Insurance Act, the Welsh Church Bill playing a bad second. If a General Election was fought to-morrow on Home Rule they would sweep the country. He characterised the threat of civil war as a gigantic game of bluff, and said if officers and generals refused to fight against Ulster, the rank and file might refuse to fight against strikers if called on to do so. The exclusion of Ulster from the rest of Ireland would not give peace.

JAPANESE NAVY SCANDAL.

It is announced that the finding of the scandal commission will be made public in the Japanese Diet shortly. Meanwhile the domiciliary searches are being extended to the residences of high officials at the Yokosuka and Kure naval stations and the Tokuyama depot, where revelations are apparently expected in connection with the briquet factory there.

Discussing the naval appropriations in the Budget Committee of the Upper House of the Diet, the Navy Minister said that as a result of the Russian war the Japanese sphere of influence in Manchuria and Korea had been extended, necessitating increased strength of the navy in that direction.

BURNING FATALITY.

An inquest was held by Mr J. F. Barry, J.P., City Coroner, and a jury, at Barrington's Hospital, yesterday afternoon, on the body of Eileen Warner, Collooney-street, aged one year and two months, who died in the institution on Sunday.

Sergeant Hawkins, Edward-street, conducted the enquiry, and the evidence went to show that on the 6th of this month, while the mother was temporarily absent from the house, she left her two children in the kitchen with the fire-place grated. She had not been long away when a neighbour heard screams from the house, and on entering found the little one's clothing on fire. With the aid of Mrs Gough and the mother the flames were extinguished, and the little victim sent to Barrington's Hospital, where death, as stated, took place yesterday.

The medical testimony attributed death to exhaustion, caused by burns, and the jury returned a verdict accordingly.

THE ATHENÆUM.

At the Athenæum last night a picture programme of high merit was supplied by the management of the Permanent Picturedrome. First place in the menu was assigned to the two-part drama, entitled "The Penalty of Folly" in which the apache dance is introduced, and a Count is the victim of the fury of one of those Parisian hooligans. Another very fine film was "The Ways of a Mother," while the recent International Match at Twickenham between England and Ireland was cleverly done. The legend designated "Winged Gold," and two other subjects made up a good entertainment.

tend to popularise their races. Some day it would be done, and when it was it would be the crowning of the meeting. Now that they were all present, he was perfectly certain that the directors would be anxious to get an expression of opinion from the shareholders as to what was best to be done. They had discussed the matter among themselves, and wanted to know from the shareholders whether or not they should cover this stand, but something would have to be done with it. He might tell the meeting that it was paying well, and brought them a lot of money every year. These were the two matters he wished to refer to—additional stabling and the cheap stand, on which they would have to lay out money. He was glad to tell them that the drains were well cleaned, and the course and premises in good order, and there was no necessity for spending money on them. They would be able to hold their own in future with any other meeting in the country. As he said their gate receipts in 1905 were £2,869, when the stake money was £1,500; in 1906 they gave £1,521 in stakes, and the gate receipts were £2,938, and last year the stakes were £2,280, and the gate receipts £1,112. That was a great jump, and it looked as if they were going to have a new future. It was for them in Limerick to keep their meetings up, to spend money on them, and by doing so they would not allow any other meeting to take the ground from under their feet. (Hear, hear.) If they kept their course in good order, and their premises in good order, no one would knock them out, and there was nothing easier than doing that. They in Limerick should keep their meetings up-to-date, and everything right. In that way they would have a gold mine in their meetings. He again expressed his thanks for the nice things said of him, and before concluding he wished to say a word of praise for their Secretary. Mr Cahill was going on the right way. He was doing his best for the Company, and leaving no stone unturned to keep the meetings popular. On behalf of the directors he wished to say that they were all thoroughly pleased with his work. (Applause).

The Secretary—I beg to thank you for the kind remarks you have made with regard to me and my work for the Company.

Mr Nolan—Do you think if the second stand were improved it would affect the first stand.

Mr Delmege—No.

Mr Nolan took it for granted that it would have that effect.

Mr Cole considered that some improvement should be made, and instanced cases of complaint made to him by people who patronised that stand in wet weather.

Mr Kavanagh said it was a question for the directors to do as they thought advisable.

Mr Nolan held the same view, and the question was not further discussed.

The proceedings then terminated.

Lord and Lady Castletown, who have been spending the winter at their London house, have now gone to Granston Manor, where they will remain until they go to Doneraile Court, their place in County Cork.

comedy
THI
Their regardi is cont have a for dut of men night, made.

REI
The the rei prison Dublir Dardis Conne Patric and tl

On! held t contin appea the sa invest exper lines. weath of sec head' condit draft Mr C Mr N 7s 6d £13 7 Mr B Mr O 15s; A sm from from £9. £7 5s

A issue the r been fello and to n comp