

Corn Cure, "Tinori." I've suffered from corns for years past, and have tried almost every advertised remedy but all have failed to give me relief. But a few weeks ago I got a bottle of Tinori, and after using it according to directions, to my great surprise and delight the corns came out quite painlessly. Tinori is indeed a boon to sufferers.

Enclosed please find stamps value 1s. 1d. for another bottle of Tinori, which I intend to give to a friend.

Yours gratefully.

TIPPERARY SHOW
CONTINUED PROGRESS

HALF-YEARLY MEETING OF SHAREHOLDERS

At a half-yearly meeting of the shareholders of the Tipperary Agricultural Society, held in the Town Hall, Tipperary, Mr. R. B. Heuston presided, and there was a very large and representative attendance.

The Chairman remarked that the Show Grounds were larger this year than in previous years. It would be well to consider whether it would not be better to spread out the side shows about the grounds more, and not have them all clumped up together. Hitherto they had refused to admit motor cars, but now that the grounds were enlarged the question was whether they would admit them.

Secretary—I advertised for a place to be provided for them last year, but when the Show came there was no place for them.

Mr. Dalton—The gates were opened, and they were put into the field where the soldiers are manoeuvring at the back of the cottage; they were admitted in there free.

The matter dropped.

The Chairman said he would ask the Vice-President, Mr. Dalton, who had inspected the further improvements and extensions carried out at the Show Ground this year to give the meeting an account of them. Now that the Show had improved not by leaps and bounds, but steadily from year to year, they expected that the coming Show, which was the seventh Show since it was started, would be more successful than any of the preceding ones (hear, hear).

Mr. Dalton said he would first say something about the various sections before making a statement about the improvements to the grounds. As regards the Show, it would be well to let the general public know that this year they would have a fairer class; there would be three sections in that class open to all Ireland. These classes were very important to the success of the horse-breeding industry, and he believed that the instruction provided by the Department had borne fruit in bringing about very marked improvement in the locality. The public would be glad to know that in these three classes shoes would be made and fitted on the ground. It would be a most interesting section, and they were arranging for a tent 100 feet long, and one corner of the ground would be marked out for that. In the cattle section there would be a special class for registered dairy cows, and prizes would be given by the Department for that, and a cup had also been presented by Mr. Vincent Scully. In addition, they had a class confined to the counties of Tipperary and Limerick for registered dairy cows. In the other classes there would be very little alteration. The poultry section would be for the first time put under the management of the Irish Poultry Association, and that would have the effect of bringing in a better class of poultry and securing larger entries. In the swine section there would be several new classes with increased prizes. In the cattle section he should have mentioned that a cup value for £21 had been presented by Mr. Gubbins, of Kilfrush, and altogether the cattle classes had been very well catered for this year by special donations. The jumps for the horses had been altered and improved, and special directions taken to make the pony class more interesting.

Funeral of Mr. Michael Shanahan
Abbeyfeale

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Amongst the public generally the death of Mr. Michael Shanahan, merchant, Abbeyfeale, has evoked many expressions of regret. Mr. Shanahan conducted for many years a large and prosperous business in the town, and was always associated with everything that tended to advance the welfare of the public and the National cause. Scientific Wonders

A grain of gold has been found by Muucke to admit of being divided into 25 thousand millions of visible parts. Of course, this is a great number of parts, and it would require many months of a man's time to count them. There are wonderful things in this world, one of these being "Clarendo," the new-cooked food for cattle, sheep, pigs, horses and poultry. Science has played a great part in the manufacture of "Clarendo," for the processes are scientific as well as secret. The Clarendon Mills of Belfast, controlled by Messrs White, Tomkins and Courage, Ltd., are the scene of a wonderful work, namely, the making of this all-cereal food, which has turned live-stock-raising in Ireland into a profitable industry. In every section of the island there are mills stores, and in every one a stock of "Clarendo" is to be found. This 100 per cent. pure food fattens live stock in three week's less time than was possible by the old-fashioned methods of feeding. It puts bone and muscle into animals. Make sure that "Clarendo" is stamped plainly on the bag.

Home Rule Triumph

REJOICINGS IN CAPPAGH

The news of the passage of Home Rule was received with great enthusiasm in Cappagh. Tar barrels were lighted on the summit of Cappagh Hill, and bonfires blazed throughout the surrounding country. Headed by a torch-light procession, the local War Pipers' Band, and National Volunteer Cops marched in procession. The proceedings terminated by all present singing in one mighty voice, "A Nation Once Again."
