Kilmallock.

Under the auspices of the Kilmallock Com na naban, an address was delivered on Sunday night by Miss O'Farrelly, M.A., University College, Dublin. Mr T W W Bennett, J P, M C C, presided, and amongst those on the platform were—Mrs T W W Bennett, Mrs Freeman, Mrs Cahill, Miss K Gaffney, Mr J Cahill, Mr D Dwane. There was a large attendance in the body of the hall.

The lecturer dealt with the Volunteer movement in an eloquent manner which aroused the utmost enthusiasm at frequent intervals and for which she was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

Mr. Bennett, in acknowledging a vote of thanks for presiding, referred to the fact that they could now drill openly, and recalled another period in the history of the country when men drilled in secret and though their enterprise was not successful at the time, they did much to bring about the liberties that the people now enjoyed.

Miss O'Farrelly was accompanied to the Hall by the Volunteer corps, headed by the pipe and drum band, and the Volunteers were drilled before the meeting commenced.

Kilfinane.

About 600 Volunteers from Kilfinane and surrounding districts assembled on the Fair Green, Kilfinane, on Sunday evening and were drilled. They afterwards paraded the streets headed by the local band after which they formed into a square. The proceedings, which were most impressive, were witnessed by a large gathering of people.

Ballyagran Corps.

The above corps of the National Volunteers, writes a correspondent, was started on Sunday with a good opening muster of half a hundred. It was good to see them forming up—fine, hearty young fellows like Mick Clifford, Barry, Blake, Naughton, O'Leary, Watson, Madigan and Murphy, whose prowess at the camán was proved on many a hard fought field. The young blood, too, was well represented, and from their appearance we may well hope that in their hands, too, the grand old game will be well upheld. Nor were the old warriors missing. I saw Moylan there as proud looking as when I saw him long ago holding a banner at the early Parnell meetings; and Joe—but sure for 30 years I have scarcely once missed Joe from any Gaelic gathering. I watched them for a long time as they got into line, formed twos, fours, and did the turns—right, left and about. I am afraid I half envied the martial bearing of those stalwart young fellows. Anyhow the wish came, the old wish impossible of materialising, that I were young again, and able to take part with them in this grand movement which, I honestly believe, will be the making of a new Ireland, one coming near to the ideals of Emmet, Davis and the others who worked so hard for its realisation. A few nights ago I happened to see the Castletown Volunteers at drill. They are a grand body of young fellows, and were willingly going through a couple of hours' hard drill after a severe day's work. But the labour we love is but a pleasure, and those did really seem happy at their work. I was delighted to see my old friend, Pat Harrold, at their head, and Peter Comber marking time as well as any old veteran could do it. It struck me that if the Ballyagran Volunteers joined with those at Castletown under Paddy Harrold's leadership it would mean the formation of a splendid company.

Late Mr. T. B. Naughton

SYMPATHY FROM RATHKEALE TOWN COMMISSIONERS

At a special meeting of the Rathkeale Town Commissioners, held on the 8th inst., the following resolution was unanimously passed:—
 "That this Council express deepest regret at the very sad and unexpected death of Mr. Thomas B. Naughton, Clerk of the Rathkeale Union and District Council for the past sixteen years. The deceased talented gentleman was one of the most popular men in the county, respected by all who knew him, a staunch advocate of the poor and oppressed, a good Irishman, a sterling Nationalist, and a general favourite in the town, where he joined in all charitable public functions; and we desire to convey to his bereaved mother and brother, Mr. David Naughton, D.C., our sincere and heartfelt condolence in their great affliction."

WHY PAY MORE FOR A SWEATED MADE SHOWER PROOF COAT THAN AN IRISH ONE MADE PERFECTLY AT O'CALLAGHAN'S.

Every free country possessed two national characteristics—a national language and a national army—would say to the men of Abbeydale, if you maintain your national language and your national army, your cause is absolutely invincible (cheers).

Funeral of Mr. John O'Sullivan, Mulgrave-street

Death and Interment of Mr. M. J. O'Carroll, Castleconnell

We regret to announce the demise of the above-named gentleman, which occurred on Thursday last, after a protracted illness, in a Dublin Hospital. Deceased had been a reporter on the staff of the Leinster Leader for a number of years, and was highly esteemed and respected by all classes in Athy and surrounding districts. He had previously been connected with several other provincial papers, notably the Midland Tribune, and subsequently the Wexford People, and spent some years in the office of the latter paper at New Ross. His gentle and amiable disposition, his unassuming and retiring manner, together with his more than ordinary abilities as a journalist, won him hosts of friends and admirers in every grade with which his business as a Pressman brought him into contact. His passing away at rather a comparatively early age has caused widespread regret; but nowhere is he more regretted than in his native parish of Castleconnell where his boyhood was spent, and to where he always rushed to enjoy his holiday periods among the old friends and neighbours who loved and esteemed him so much. His remains were conveyed to Castleconnell on Saturday where a large concourse assembled at the Railway Station and bore him to the Parish Church. The funeral on Sunday was very large and representative. The chief mourners were—Mr Ned Carroll (brother), Mr E Carroll (uncle), Messrs P Carroll, M Carroll, S Hannon, P Hannon, P Ryan, T Ryan, M Ryan, John Shea, and Michael Shea (cousins). The general public included—Messrs A Mackey, M C C; N Humphreys, J P, D C; D O'Brien, D C; D M'Mahon, D C; T G Ryan, D C; J F Power, Nenagh News; J M Ginnane, Manager LIMERICK LEADER; Mr Reynolds, North Tipperary County Council, Nenagh; Mr Healy, Nenagh; E Coffey, Solicitor; T H W Enright, Solicitor; Michael Millar, N T; W F Lee, N T; R Edmonds, N T; John Browne, Auctioneer, etc; R Enright, M J Keane, P Leamy, J Hartigan, J Murnane, D Daly, E Ryan, Michael Mackey, D Ahern, P O'Connor, J Duffy, P Garry, P Hayes, P J Magee, J Herbert, M Hogan, J Carroll, J Mackey, C Coughlan, W Enright, P H Scanlan, P Delaney, W Ryan, J Ahern, M Ryan, J Ahern, W Ryan, O'Brien's Bridge, etc, etc. The Rev P M'Inerney, assisted by the Rev J Heenan, officiated at the graveside.
