

Constable Sullivan said that from the corner near the house he saw O'Neill leave the place; he followed him and brought him back to the house; he denied he had been on the premises; he found traces of drink on the bar near the door.

Mrs. Butler said that the man had come in for a drink, but she refused to give it to him; he did not come in any further.

Constable Swanton gave similar evidence. He said that when he got to the corner he heard the door opening, and looking around he saw two men on the street opposite the door, which was closed immediately; these two men, it was admitted, were travellers.

The Bench dismissed the case on the merits.

ANOTHER CASE.

There was a similar charge against Mrs. Catherine Daffy, Market-street.

Constable Swanton deposed that he saw the man, Henry Connolly, leave the premises; he asked him what business he had there, and he said he went there to see a Mrs. O'Grady, from Danagh, who promised his wife a goose; she was a cousin of Miss Daffy.

The defendant gave evidence of this relationship; he invited Connolly to come to the house later.

The case was dismissed.

ON LICENSED PREMISES.

A man named Michael Hogan and his son Michael, and a man named Tim Connell, of Ballyed, were summoned for being on the licensed premises of William Keane on Sunday.

Constable Sullivan said he saw these men loitering from one publichouse to another, and then he saw them go into Mr. Keane's; they were travellers, but were going from house to house.

Defendants were fined in nominal sums.

LARCENY OF LEAD.

Michael Fitzgerald and Thomas Pilkington were brought up on a charge of the larceny of some lead from the store at the rear of the new cottages on the Clare road, the said lead being the property of the Ennis Urban Council.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, the wife of the caretaker, said she saw the defendants loitering near the storehouse in the field at the back of the cottages on September 4th; she kept her eye upon them, and subsequently she saw them selling the lead at Kelly's marine store.

Mr. Thomas Sheridan, Clerk of Works to the Urban Council, identified the lead which was taken.

Defendants pleaded guilty.

Head-Constable Hourihan stated, in reply to the Clerk, who asked if there was anything against them, that Pilkington had been up before in connection with the taking of a bicycle.

After a long discussion, the bench decided to allow both out under the first Offenders Act, on their own bails in £10 each.

TRANSFERRED SUM.

The proceeds of all taxes levied in Ireland shall be collected by the Imperial Government, and the Imperial Exchequer shall pay to the Irish Exchequer annually what is known as "The Transferred Sum," this being the net cost at the time of the passing of the Act of the Irish services.

There will be also handed over to the Irish Exchequer a sum of £500,000 annually, diminishing in each year after the third year of payment by the sum of £50,000 until it is reduced to £200,000. A sum equal to the proceeds of any tax imposed by the Irish Parliament will also be transferred.

When the Irish deficit has disappeared for three successive years there shall be a revision of the financial relations, and for this purpose members of the Irish House of Commons will be summoned to Westminster on the basis of population compared with the British representation, and while the revision is under consideration they will be deemed members of the Imperial Parliament.

Moore, Commander-in-Chief, has been good enough to promise to visit Clare for a couple of days' inspection of the Volunteers in the county, at a date to be fixed, towards the middle or close of the present month.
