

J. Kelly, R.M., depositions were taken in the case of two men, Martin Callaghan and Patrick Jackson, charged with being concerned in the larceny of a small sum of money from a man who arrived in town last night. Evidence was given that the visitor and the accused went into a public house in Queen street, and subsequently the charge was made, and the two men taken into custody. Jackson was discharged as the result of the investigation, and Callaghan remanded, nominal bail being fixed for his appearance.

Death of Brigadier-General John Gough, V.C.

A Distinguished Career.

We ("Morning Post") regret to announce the death, from wounds received on Saturday, of Brigadier-General John Edmond Gough, V.C., C.B., C.M.G., A.D.C. This distinguished officer was on the staff at Aldershot as principal General Staff Officer to Sir Douglas Haig at the time of the mobilisation in August, and went out for Staff work with the Army Corps. In the great retreat from the Mons line to Paris he did admirable work, and was mentioned in despatches on October 8th by the Commander-in-Chief. Since then his name had been noted again, and last week he was made a C.B in the special honours list issued in connection with the operations in the field.

General Gough was a Greenjacket, and had a wonderful record of service in various parts of Africa. He was in the central region against the Chilwas in 1896, as well as at the battle of Khartum, and in the Boer War he was inside the town of Ladysmith. He was a staff captain, brigade signalling officer, and aide-de-camp. From South Africa he went to Somaliland, where his gallantry won him the Victoria Cross. He was afterwards Inspector-General of the King's African Rifles, and served a second time against the Mullah. He comes of the famous fighting family of Goughs of Indian renown, and was the son of General Sir Chas Gough, V.C. His brother Hubert is the cavalry General who was mentioned for excellent work in the last despatch, and was promoted Major General for distinguished service in the field. Hubert Gough will be remembered as the central figure of the 3rd Cavalry Brigade incident at the Curragh. John Gough was a brilliant officer, and won by his work in action the V.C, C.B, C.M.G, and brevet promotion. He was an A.D.C to the King, and greatly interested himself in the Public Schools training camps.

The death of Brigadier-General J. E. Gough places several families in and around Clonmel in mourning. He was born on 25th October, 1871, and in 1907 he married Dorothea, daughter of General Keyes.

The "Daily Mail," in its obituary notice, writes:—"He comes of the famous fighting family of Goughs of Indian renown, and was the son of General Sir Charles Gough, who was also a V.C. Sir Charles won the Victoria Cross under the most extraordinary circumstances chronicled in the records of that decoration. Sir Charles saved his brother's life and also that of Major Anson in the Indian Mutiny, besides leading two dashing cavalry charges which brought him into personal conflict with the enemy's leaders. Another of the family, General Sir Hugh Gough, won the Victoria Cross at Alumbagh. They are members of that race of Goughs who recognize Viscount Gough of Goograt and Limerick as head, and they are all related to the Field-Marshal whose name is chiefly associated with the capture of the Punjab.
