of our nursing, but bear the heaviest financial burden. But for the Sisters is work could never have been carried myself, I may say, and I am sure peak for you also, that we their great generosity, and are most them. We have also to thank the many of Ma y, who gave us the services very day to visit our patients in St sh, and thus enable us to embrace the in this most beneficent system. Their grand Committee, small in numbers, highest quality, and good workers, them. Our Hon Sec, Miss Doyle, is fect, and our Hon Treasurer, Lady ps our money carefully and our curately, and to these ladies much of is due. This winter will, I fear, be ly trying on the poor. As we all feel, the cost of living has risen . For what are called the wealthier means something, but it is bearable, and harm that they should understand is something more than flag-d boasting. But the real burden, misery of this war, is being the people, and as it goes on its will grow and extend to larger classes munity. And for what? Well, that brings me dangerously near to politics, all say is that the good which will re-he war will have to be something supercompensates for a tithe of the misery g. All throughour Holy Father the Pope an example which we should follow, right us to think and speak of this awful not in the terms of human passion, of ambition, but as a punishment for the world, in which we should turn to God and cenance. (Applause).
