NON SALMON FISHERIES.

It is shown no great falling off in the salmon up the Shannon and the net owners on the lower waters of the river to have an unexpected, and all according to the turn of luck as the season closes. The people, too, are commencing their appearance, and a number, but not over many. The peals are open until the first week in June and if it should prove a good one in this year will be a very remunerative one for the fishermen and owners.

At the Athenaeum Picturedrome next week the programme to be presented contains some very entertaining and instructive pictures. On Monday and Tuesday nights the great Trans-Atlantic serial photo play "The Purple Domino" will be screened. This is a story of romance and mystery in fifteen two-part episodes and should prove extremely popular. The attraction for Wednesday and Thursday nights is the drama "Liberty," while on the two remaining nights of the week "The Monkey's Paw," portraying Mr J. Lawson and his original London Company will be filmed. There will be a special matinee on Monday at 3.30 p.m.

DEATH OF SERGEANT MAUNSELL, R.M.F.

Many friends in Limerick have heard with regret of the death, which has occurred at the military barracks, Aghada, of Sergeant W. Maunsell, 3rd Batt. Royal Munster Fusiliers. Deceased had been many years in the R.I.C., attaining to the rank of sergeant, and retiring from the service some years ago, he volunteered for the Army some time after the outbreak of war. He had been at the front for a considerable time, and was twice wounded. He died of syncope on the 16th instant at Aghada, where he had been for some months. The interment with military honours took place at the military cemetery, Fort Carlisle, and was attended by relatives and other mourners.

THEATRE ROYAL.

The Vaudeville season at the Theatre Royal will be resumed next week, commencing on Monday night, when a very fine programme is billed. The entertainment, which starts at half-past eight, includes Hickey's Comedy Circus, introducing performing ponies, and other novelties. A welcome addition to the menu is Mr Cathal MacGarvey, the celebrated humorist, and Miss Frances Kinders, the vocalist and specialty dancer. In addition, a series of pictures will be shown.
