THE ALIENS ACT.

Joseph Hartman, a German carrying on business as jeweller in Patrick street, Limerick, was arrested yesterday under the Aliens Act and removed under constabulary escort to Oldcastle, Meath, internment camp. This is the first occasion of Mr Hartman's arrest, he had been interned subsequent to the outbreak of the war, but released shortly afterwards. He is now serving in the British Army.

GAIETY THEATRE.

Next week at the Gaiety Theatre a programme of merit will be shown, and should ensure large audiences. On Monday and Tuesday nights "Fanatic" will be continued, in addition to the emelle drama, "The Under-world," and the comedy, "The Iceman and the Alewife." "The Purple Domino" (7th instalment) will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday as well as the Selig drama, "The Sacred of Agra," and some attractive comedies. "America Went to War" will be the feature in Friday and Saturday's programme.

THE PADDOCKS, LIMERICK.

Bullock second class, £14 18s 6d, £14 17s 6d, £14 12 10s. Good enquiry for milk, no tops; second class calved cows, £29 5s; useful unconditioned "oldish" cows, £27; lambs, 39s; and litter, £10 15s.

THEATRE ROYAL.

A remarkably fine picture entitled "The of a Nation" will be presented at the Theatre Royal next week, commencing each evening at eight o'clock. This is one of the most sensational films of the year, and its production required a lot of study and thought. It is a film with a message, and no one in search of an inventive subject should miss seeing it.

WEEKLY PRODUCE SALE.

The Agricultural Hall.

Messrs Ebrill Bros, Auctioneers, held their weekly sale of Garden Produce at the Agricultural Hall yesterday. Supplies came forward in greater quantities and variety, and the excellent and attractive manner in which the produce was sent in reflect the greatest credit on the growers, and no doubt tempted the buyers in many cases to give very satisfactory prices for the same. There was a large attendance at the sale, and good competition for every class of produce, as given by both ing his child, aged 12, to school. Mr R Leonard, attendance officer, stated the case, which was not questioned, the defendant not answering, but sending his wife. Mr Leonard stated the mother had on more than one occasion refused to send the boy to school. An order was made to have the boy sent to school.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL CASE.

Mr Fennell, Inspector, Limerick Branch, Prevention of Cruelty to Children, applied for an order to have Mary Anne Brennan, aged eight, committed to an industrial school. The child's father was dead, and the mother an inmate of the infirm ward, Limerick Union, for the past 3 years. The Guardians were about to send the child to Glin Industrial School when the aunt intervened and took charge of her. But she was very poor and of weak intellect, and the little girl was in a most neglected state until on a complaint the Inspector removed her to the detention ward in St George's Industrial School some weeks ago, and since when the girl had considerably improved.

Mr Kelly raised the question of how the Guardians relieved themselves of their responsibility in the matter, the why and wherefore, and after some conversation it was decided to adjourn the consideration of the application to next Court day. There was no other case.

WILL MR REDMOND RESIGN ?

The Dublin correspondent of the "Morning Post" says there are rumours of the imminent resignation of Mr Redmond.

owner of the carcass of a cow seized as unfit for human food. John Cross, Park, was summoned for being in possession of the carcass as a common carrier.

Mr J J Dundon, solicitor, prosecuted, at the summons was concerned with the carcass of a cow that was seized on the 14th June. Forrest in the possession of John Cross, and this instance was acting as a common carrier. Cross was prosecuted for being in possession of the carcass in the course of conveyance for on the ground that it was unfit for human consumption. The other defendant, Healy, was summoned being the owner of the carcass. It was stated that Dr McGrath directed it to be buried. In fact it was in a highly decomposed condition. The only point that could be raised in connection with the procedure was that the carcass had not been seen at the time it was legally condemned by a Justice, but a certificate had been given by the Mayor on the 26th.

Patrik Forrest, Food and Drugs Inspector, his evidence stated while on duty on the 14th June he saw John Cross coming through the street with a float containing the carcass of a cow. His attention was directed to the carcass which was tied in position in the float as though it was alive. Until witness examined the carcass he thought it was alive. He had Dr McGrath's certificate, and he directed that the carcass be buried forthwith. Mr Healy arrived after the fact and said the cow was his property.

In reply to Mr Kelly, the Inspector said the inspection took place outside John-street Station, and from the way it was propped up the float it appeared as if it were alive.

Mr P J O'Sullivan, solicitor, said there was no evidence upon which a conviction could be sustained had not been shown that the carcass was conveyed for sale or exposed for sale.

Mr Dundon—You have evidence that the carcass was being brought to the city and that Mr Healy admitted the carriage of it. That is sufficient evidence that it was conveyed for sale.

Mr O'Sullivan—Assumption is not evidence. The carcass could be used for purposes other than for sale.

Mr Dundon—The onus rests with you to show that it was intended for other purposes.

Mr Kelly—What do you say about the evidence, Mr O'Sullivan?

Mr O'Sullivan—I say it was improper to put the carcass out. The carcass should be condemned by the coroner for its burial.

The magistrates held that an indispensable condition was not complied with, inasmuch as justice had not seen the carcass until it was interred on the 26th. They accordingly dismissed the case.

GROWS NEW HAIR IN TWO WEEKS

Money Back if it Fails

Most men take baldness as something inevitable, as though it were a kind of Income Tax. But there is no more reason why hair should grow on the top of the head than on the face—and most men have to shave every few days, or wear a beard. If you are losing the hair growing or getting thin in patches, get a bottle of Lavona Hair Tonic, and use it according to directions. As a business man you value the meaning of a guarantee. A chemist who sells you the bottle will give you a personal guarantee from falling out. Get new hair on the bald places, and turn the faded colour to its original shade, or have you your money back. Lavona Hair Tonic is up in attractive sprinkler stoppers, retailing at only 2/11 per bottle. It is a secret preparation, being prepared from the most old-fashioned formula calling
