INFIRMARY.

Medical Officer.

the suppression of the mutiny, went to Wilhelmshafen, and ordered that one out of every seven mutineers should be shot. Dr Michaelis objected, and eventually only three men were shot, and heavy sentences of penal servitude were imposed on the others. One of the reasons of the mutiny is said to have been the bad and inadequate food.

Mutiny Causes No Surprise in London.

The German naval mutiny caused no surprise in British naval circles. The Press Association learns that rumours of a mutinous outbreak were received four weeks ago, and information to hand now confirms this.

Interviewed last night, a distinguished naval officer said that, although undue importance must not be attached to the news received, the moral of sections of the German Navy was known to be at the breaking point, and further outbreaks might be expected.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

Second-Lieut James Dunn.

Intelligence has been received by his relatives at Castle View Gardens, Limerick, that Second-Lieutenant James Dunn has been killed in action in France. The deceased joined the Seaforth Highlanders as a private shortly after the outbreak of war, and eighteen months later after being wounded in action on the Western front he received his Commission. His death which took place in one of the "pushes" in Flanders will be learned with extreme regret in the city, especially among the members of the Protestant Young Men's Association of which he was an active member. He was a fine type of athlete, manly and courteous, and was one of the most brilliant members of the Young Men's Hockey Club which he represented in many contests. He was also selected to represent Munster in the Inter-Provincial matches on various occasions, and the honour of representing his country against Wales was also conferred on him by the selection committee of the Irish Hockey Union. Previous to joining the colours he was an assistant at Mr J Stewart's City Pharmacy, 45 George street.

The Submarine Warfare.

Last week's returns of shipping losses showed a slight increase on the figures of the previous couple of weeks—on the immediately previous of 3 vessel of over 1,600 tons and of 3 fishing craft.

Captain W A Redmond, M.P, Receives D.S.O.

Message From the King.

Mr John Redmond, M.P, has received the following letter from Colonel Clive Wigram, one of His Majesty's private secretaries:—
York Cottage, Sandringham, Norfolk,
5th October, 1917.

DEAR MR REDMOND,—The King was very glad to hear that your son had been given an immediate reward of D.S.O at the front for gallantry money to the defendant, to a Duggan, rate collector, in respect of his land, which was then John Mathers. At the time Mathers had not received a rates, nor his money.

The defendant was examined, and the effect that he often received from Mr Duggan. He recollected receiving money from the plaintiff but never from the plaintiff.

In the absence of material proof as to whether all the grazing mounts were sold, the case was adjourned until tomorrow.

PRICE OF PIGS

Mary Forde, a small dealer and keeper, brought an action against Denny and Sons, bacon curers, to recover the price of pigs sold.

Mr P J O'Sullivan, solr, represented the defendant, and Mr J Dodd, solr, was for the plaintiff. Mr Dodds said Messrs Denny had paid the money over to him and he had it in his pocket, but the difficulty was who to pay it to as his husband also claimed it.

Mr O'Donnell—I appear for the plaintiff's husband.

His Honor said he would adjourn the case until tomorrow. The plaintiff was examined, and the house and pig belonged to the plaintiff. He had been tenant ten years, and her husband was an idle man never contributed to the support, neither did he own the pig.

His Honor—Now Mr O'Donnell, you say your client is a very desirable gentleman.

Mr O'Donnell—He is not here. I say that this man is a feather merchant and a feather-bed maker.

Mr O'Donnell—He is in the shop and night looking after the business.

The plaintiff—Indeed he is not. I say that he was in the Free Library looking over the books.

His Honor gave the plaintiff a sum of money as amount sued for.

CLAIM FOR SHOOTING

Patrick Fitzgerald, Mountrice, brought an action against Mr Stephen F Ebrill to recover £300 in respect of shooting over his lands at Trough.

Mr L O'B Kelly, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr C Ebrill, solr, appeared for the defendant. The plaintiff's case was that the defendant had shot over his lands in breach of agreement, and was for the season of 1914.

In reply to Mr Ebrill the plaintiff said that he also let the land to the defendant in 1913, and for 1914 he let it to Mr Ebrill.

His Honor dismissed the action.

ACTION AGAINST POLICE

Maria Quin, Nicholas-street, brought an action against Sergeant Kennedy, R.I.C., to recover damages for assault and for false imprisonment on 12th July.

Mr P Kelly (instructed by Mr J Kelly, solr), appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr Comyn (instructed by Mr P J O'Sullivan, solr) appeared for the defendant.

Mr Kelly said the action was removed to the Superior Court. On the evening of 12th July a man named John Sullivan was seen at the house in Nicholas-street with an opportunity to assault the plaintiff, who was a woman. Through the intervention
