

Society, is arranging a new work for orchestration, and it will be given at the concert for the first time.

SHOOTING OUTRAGE IN COUNTY GALWAY.

At half-past ten o'clock on Sunday night, near Oranmore, a young man, the son of a farmer, was fired at by an ambushed party and wounded, but fortunately not seriously. District Inspector Hildebrand, Galway, and a number of police have the matter in hand.

IRISH BUTTER EXPORTS

Mr Clynes, replying to Mr Byrne, who asked whether immediate steps would be taken to prohibit the export of butter from Ireland, said that the Food Controller was not at present prepared to apply compulsion to Irish butter producers, whose patriotism he was assured could be relied on not to export more butter than Ireland could reasonably spare. He had no evidence which suggested that butter was shorter in Ireland than in other portions of the United Kingdom, but he would be glad to be informed of any specific case in which over-payment for butter could be substantiated.]

THE COLISEUM

The outstanding feature of the programme presented to the large audiences at the Coliseum last night was the delightful film entitled "A Modern Cinderella," featuring Jane Caprice, the winsome actress. The picture is beautifully reproduced, the grouping and colouring being admirably executed, while the acting is excellent. Sydney Drew in "Free Speech" proved an amusing picture, while the L-Ko comedy, "Where is my Wife," was a happy affair. Paramount travels was the opening of what is sure to be a delightful series of travel pictures.

THE KILLING OF YOUNG PIGS.

Upwards of 30,000 young pigs, of a few weeks old, have been killed and sent away from the Midlands and West. Serious complaint is made by the pig-buyers, who allege that this traffic is ruining the legitimate pig trade.

SUDDEN DEATH.

A sad occurrence took place on Sunday, when a man named John Fitzgerald, aged about 50 years, died somewhat suddenly in Nicholas street. The deceased was a member of the local Volunteers, and was very popular. Much sympathy is entertained for his relatives in their bereavement.

was that no matter how small the order was they expected Mr Bracken to attend to planting, and it was not always easy for him to do that, having to deal with the special fruit planting scheme, as well as vegetable and other plots.

It was decided that steps be taken to push forward this work in every way possible. It was also decided to communicate with the Department with a view to getting the assistance for some time of a forester to supervise the actual planting.

THE ATHENAEUM.

The Athenaeum Hall was largely patronised last night when the management provided a delightful treat of pictures. Foremost amongst these was the film entitled "London's Enemies," a drama of great merit featuring Percy J Moran as Lieutenant Daring. The engrossing serial "The Secret of the Submarine" was up to the standard of the previous instalments, while the comic side of the programme was decidedly entertaining and bright.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT AT CROOM.

The goods train from Cork due to arrive in Limerick at seven o'clock this morning met with an accident at Croom. On entering the station some of the waggons left the rails with the result that traffic on the section was delayed for some time. When the breakdown gang had righted matters the train proceeded on its journey and was followed by the ordinary passenger train from Cork due to arrive in the city at 9.45, but which was detained for over an hour in consequence of the accident.

OUTRAGE IN CLARE,

Ennis, Monday.

News of a daring outrage reached here from the Crusheen district, where, on Saturday night, four gun-shots were discharged into the residence of Mr Daniel Hehir, J.P. Several windows were smashed and some of the furniture damaged, but none of the occupants received any injury. There is no ostensible motive for the outrage, as Mr Hehir is a very popular gentleman.

FIRE IN A WATERFORD HOTEL

The billiard room, basement, stairway, and four apartments in the Adelphi Hotel, Waterford, the property of Mr H B Beasley, have been destroyed by fire. About 1 a.m. yesterday the outbreak was discovered, and by the time the local fire brigade and several lines of hose from the Post Office were requisitioned the flames had got complete grip of the rear portions of the building, not, however, before the occupants had been got safely out. After 5 hours' incessant work the fire was subdued.
