

The great master-mind of President Wilson may be trusted to analyse to the full the plausible but insidious move of the enemy. It follows in the wake of the barbarous outrage committed by the Huns last Thursday—the sinking of the "Leinster," and the sending of hundreds of defenceless people, men, women, and children, to a watery grave. A French paper remarks that President Wilson is entirely in agreement with the Entente Governments, and that there must be no discussions. "It is the absolute rule (the Journal continues) that conditions for the suspension of hostilities are dictated to the vanquished country, and must be accepted by it without discussion." The London Press is similarly emphatic in its view. We have not had long to wait for President Wilson's decision. A wire received this morning from Washington announces, what was generally anticipated would occur, viz—The President has informed Germany that the only condition on which an armistice can be granted is that atrocities on land and sea must cease, and also that the autocracy must go before final peace can come. No other answer was possible.

CURRENT COMMENT.

W.N.H.A.

An Exhibition under the auspices of the Women's National Health Association will be opened in the Diamond Hall, Cruise's Hotel, on Thursday next, at 12.30 o'clock, by Lady Emily, who takes a keen interest in the working of the local branch. The Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair, the pioneer of the Health movement in this country, is to attend and will deliver a short address, as will also Dr Truby King, U.S.A. To enable school-children and others interested to view the Exhibition, there will be free admission between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. Child welfare and various other domestic aspects are bound up with the work of the W.N.H.A., and at the present time, owing to the food problem and other circumstances, it should possess a social interest for the community. The educational advantages of the Exhibition cannot be doubted, and it is to be hoped there will be a large and representative gathering at next Thursday's function. The Marchioness of Aberdeen will at the concert on Thursday evening show interesting lantern slides of her American tour, and deliver the lecture.

AEROPLANE EXHIBITION.

The Aeroplane Exhibition at Messrs Christy's Garage, 58 George Street, was visited by considerable numbers on Saturday and yesterday and to-day. The Exhibition consists of a large assortment of war material captured from the enemy on the Western front. It includes portions of trench mortars, a machine gun, entrenching tools and helmets, and other war impediments. A British aeroplane is also included in the exhibits, and this is a very interesting feature of the exhibition, which will remain open during the week. Those who visit it have much to learn in the way of obtaining an insight into the engines used in modern warfare.

DEATH OF MR P M QUINLAN, TRALEE.

The death of Mr P M Quinlan, late secretary of Kerry Co. Council, which occurred at his residence, The Karris, Tralee, on Friday, at the age of 56, road to and from the Limerick Junction on Sunday, a letter was read from the Postmaster stating the question was under consideration.

The Secretary was directed to reply to the effect that the Chamber recognised that the question was under consideration since early in July, and that being so, the Post Office was true to the tradition of the pre-war Government.

RAILWAY PARCELS OFFICE.

Mr M D Shaw wrote calling attention to the want of sufficient accommodation at the Railway Parcels Office for the handling of parcels, and the Secretary was directed to write the local Superintendent, with a view to the necessary alterations being made for their proper handling.

THE LATE MISS GRENE-BARRY.

The remains of the late Miss Anna Maud Grene-Barry, V.A.D., younger daughter of Mr James Grene-Barry, D.L., Sandville, who lost her life in the sinking of the Royal Mail steamer "Leinster" on Thursday, arrived in Limerick yesterday by the 1.15 p.m. train from Kingsbridge. The remains were met at the terminus by a large concourse of the citizens, and the funeral took place immediately for the family burial place at Rooketown. The deceased young lady was a general favourite, and her death under such tragic circumstances has evoked general sympathy for her father and family in their bereavement.

The chief mourners were—Mr Jas Grene Barry, D.L. (father); Mr J T Grene Barry, C.E. (brother), and Mr N Barry, Manager National Bank, Ennis. The clergy present were—Very Rev Canon McNamara, P.P. V.G. THE ATHENÆUM.

At the Athenæum Picturedrome last night the management presented a varied programme, and one that was very highly appreciated by the attendance at both houses. The society drama entitled "The Old Sin" featured June Keith and John Loreau in a subject of power and force, while the seventh instalment of "The Bull's Eye" showed Eddie Polo at his best. Comedy was represented by the rollicking theme, "A Little Quins Work." The official topical budget contained some very interesting subjects, while the picture depicting the shades of winter was a taking study of nature. To-morrow and following nights the great five-part drama, "The Man who was Afraid," will be screened; and on Friday and Saturday "The Little Detective" will be a prominent feature of the programme.

THE GAITY.

A programme, attractive and interesting, was presented at the Gaiety Theatre last night to crowded audiences. The outstanding feature was the magnificent film designated "A Man's Man," featuring J Warren Kerrigan in his first Parata play, it gave this emotional actor plenty scope for his undoubted talents. It proved a wonderfully clever feature designed on unconventional lines, and held attention throughout. The Irish news pictures were, as usual, interesting.
