GAIETY THEATRE.

There was a large audience at the Gaiety last night when a select programme of was introduced. Mr Douglas Fairbanks, an interesting cinema personality, appeared in the new aircraft series, entitled "Pal in Morocco." This proved a highly popular film, in which keen interest was displayed by the audience. In addition to "Bound and Co.," the proprietor showed a few other interesting pictures. There will be a change of programme on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday; the superb production, "Cleopatra," will be led.

LABOUR UNREST.

Threatened Coal Strike

Coal sales examiners have decided to report on the 22nd inst. unless their demands for a 10 per cent increase in wages and a reduction in hours are conceded.

A conference was held in London yesterday between representatives of the the Transport Federation and coal exporters, shipping and railway companies engaged in coal with regard to the demand of tippers and an 8 hour working day and a minimum of 55s per week. A committee was appointed to go fully into the matter.

ment presented scenes in Ireland, and during the week they propose bringing under the public notice all that is best in Irish landscape scenery, and life in town and country. Last night Limerick was shown, as taken by the Film Co of Ireland, and from the point of fidelity it was a decided success. The ever appealing drama "Love Letters" was also screened, and another instalment of that cleverly executed African story entitled "The Moon Child."

On Wednesday and Thursday there is a State night production that comes once in a decade, featuring the popular star, Mary Miles Minter, in "Melissa of the Hills."

THEATRE ROYAL.

Described as the great sensational film "Beave and Bold" was exhibited at the Theatre Royal last night when the attendance was of very large proportions. This is a very engaging subject, full of moments of the most interesting description, and decidedly novel in conception. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday Mary Pickford, the ideal of the cinema goer, will appear as the "Little Princess," and the management will also show a magnificent film designated "A Trip to the West of Ireland," whose scenery is unrivalled for boldness and grandeur.

HOCKEY.

At the Farranshane grounds on Saturday, before a good attendance, a team representing the Protestant Young Men's Association was engaged with the Royal Welsh Fusiliers. After a rather skilful exhibition the Young Men secured a win by five goals to one. Yesterday the Young Men travelled to Cloughjordan, where they played the local team, and were declared victors of a good contest by three goals to two for Cloughjordan.

DEATH OF MR J GUINANE.

The death, which we regret to announce, took place on Sunday at his residence, Rathkeale, of Mr Joseph Guinane, of pneumonia, following influenza. The deceased, who was in his thirty-fourth year, was a clerk to Mr P J O'Sullivan, Solicitor, for a number of years, and by no one was he held in greater esteem than by Mr O'Sullivan. He was of a bright and winning manner, which made for him a host of friends, who deplore his untimely death, and express sympathy with his relatives in their bereavement. The funeral took place yesterday for the old cemetery, Rathkeale, and was attended by a large and representative body of mourners.

The officiating clergy were—Very Rev Canon O'Donnell, P.P., V.F.; Rev Fr O'Leary, C.C., and Rev Fr O'Dwyer, C.C.
