FARMERS WITH GUNS.

Farmers in the North-West, at a Derry meeting, decided to refuse the demands of the labourers. There was determined opposition to a proposal to enter into negotiation. A prominent farmer stated that farmers had now gone on strike, as the men's claims appeared provocative. Work is being carried on in place under the protection of guns and revolvers carried by the owners. Police are protecting farm milk supplies, but there are no eggs or butter arriving. Distillery workers refused to fill grains for a farmer.
