[illegible] of Frank Sullivan, aged about 50 years. He was a labourer of no fixed residence, and had no relatives. Witness believed him to be single.

The President—That is all you can tell us about him?—That is all.

Can you identify Constable Wiggins?—Yes.

Continuing the police witness stated while investigating the outrage he heard that Constable Herbert J Wiggins had been shot at in John-square on the same occasion. He went and found the Constable in a house in a laneway in the vicinity. He had been taken in there by civilians who were bandaging his wounds. The constable was quite conscious when witness arrived and spoke to him. He told witness that while speaking to a girl he got "Hands Up" from four or five men who searched him and then shot him as he was leaving. It was witness's opinion that Wiggins was shot before the bomb was thrown.

The President—Did he say anything to you about these men being armed?—Yes; at least two were armed with revolvers.

Did he say anything else?—Yes; he said as he was lying on the ground four or five shots were fired into him.

That is all you know?—That is his statement to me. I saw him on the following morning, and he repeated the statement.

Was he armed?—He had no arms on him.

The President—You don't think the people in the house where he was taken to could tell you?—No. Of course there are plenty people who could tell, but won't.

Anything else?—On the 10th I saw the constable's dead body in the Military Hospital, and identified it as that of Herbert J Wiggins, aged 24 years, and single. He was a native of Clones, County Monaghan.

A police witness stated that at 9 30 p.m on the 8th a small party of constabulary left the barracks to make enquiries in Broad street; when returning at 9 45, and when fifty yards from the barracks, bombs were thrown at them, and fire was opened on the attackers. Three of the police were injured, and as far as the witness knew he did not see any civilian struck. No bombs were thrown by the police.

Another police witness corroborated, and added that at the time of the attack there were civilians about. Neither did he hear screams nor see anybody fall.

The medical testimony with reference to the death of Constable Wiggins showed that he was admitted to the military hospital at 10 o'clock on the night of the 8th instant suffering from gunshot wounds of the chest, left shoulder, arm, and hip. He died at 11 p.m on the following night, and the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage.

This closed the evidence, and the decision of the court of enquiry will be announced.
