LOYMENT GRANT.

As voted a grant of five and a half million for the relief of unemployment, which has been most acute in Ireland and this week the House of Commons discussed the scheme in its details. It is very disappointing that no opinion can be gathered. Ireland is not in the vote, though in this respect the situation is relatively as ripe as elsewhere. Sir W. Allen made a strong case for consideration for the acute unemployment in this country, but there is as yet no indication that the Government intend to give any direction. It is earnestly to be hoped that they will do so. The case demands it. This week's contributions to the Imperial Conference on the same basis as Scotland, and it is therefore not surprising that every Imperialist, no one can deny that there are many opportunities in Ireland for the application of reproductive schemes, such as have been exemplified in Great Britain, which should be devoted to land improvement, afforestation, forestry, road making, and agriculture, which will employ a substantial amount of labour. The Government, Mr. W. Allen said, have introduced measures which apply only to three-quarters of the United Kingdom. He had

He warned the men who boasted about standing firm in all circumstances that, by doing so, they might lose the greatest opportunity that had yet presented itself of achieving settlement.

The Northern Ireland Cabinet arrived in London yesterday morning and had a long conference with Sir James Craig.

It is understood that they approved their Premier's attitude.

They will meet again this morning before seeing Mr. Lloyd George. It is said unofficially that they have decided on their reply to the Government's proposals.

DEATH OF MAJOR-GENERAL LLOYD.

We regret to observe the announcement of the death of Major-General Thomas Francis Lloyd, J.P., D.L., of Beechmount, Rathkeale, which occurred on Tuesday, at the Royal Palace Hotel, Kensington, London, in the 82nd year of his age. The deceased belonged to an old County Limerick family, and at Rathkeale he was held in the highest esteem and regard by all classes and creeds for his kindly and charitable disposition. His Christmas charities were, indeed, lavish. He was Colonel of the Prince of Wales North Devonshire Regiment, and his only son was killed in the South African War. General Lloyd was son of Thomas Lloyd, Beechmount, who was J.P. for the Counties of Clare, Limerick, and Tipperary, and D.L. for County Limerick, and also represented the County in the Imperial Parliament. The late General Lloyd married in 1870 Mary Henrietta, daughter of Christian Allhusen, of Stoke Court, Bucks. He was educated at Cheltenham College, and was ensign in the 98th Regiment in 1855. In 1860 he served in the North-west Frontier Campaign, and was present in the action at Poluteen, which ended in the forcing of the Barrarah Pass and the taking of the stronghold, Makin. For his gallantry in this engagement he received the medal and clasp. He commanded the 98th for five and a half years, and was subsequently Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster-General of the Cork district for five years, when he was promoted Major-General. The deceased gentleman filled the office of County High Sheriff in 1894, and in Rathkeale, where he was well known and respected, his death will be heard of with sincere sorrow and regret.
