It is a pathetic coincidence that but a few weeks ago his former parishioners of St. John's him a suitable presentation, including an address, expressive of their affectionate esteem. In his time Canon Langbridge held Diocesan offices, including membership of Diocesan Council and Board of Education. So in 1906 he was appointed Canon of St. John's, the first parish that he ministered in Limerick. A funeral will take place from St. John's Church for St. John's Church at twelve o'clock on Monday.

DEATH OF COL SIR JOHN ROGERS.

The "Kent and Sussex Courier" has the following with reference to the death of a distinguished Limerick man, Col Sir John Rogers, eldest surviving son of the late Mr G. F. Handel Rogers, of this city:—

"We regret to record the death, on Tuesday, 10th inst. at his residence, Whitelands, Edeabridge of Colonel Sir John Rogers.

"There is a certain pathos about the lives of our Empire-builders which comes vividly to our notice when we hear of the death in our midst of Colonel Sir John Rogers, K.C.M.G., D.S.O. These men usually quit the country of their birth as soon as their education is completed, and spend their lives overseas toiling and striving in various climes for the benefit of the Empire, carrying with them, and always endeavouring to instil them into the natives of the country in which they are serving, the high ideals and especially the sense of justice in which they have been brought up. They often, after holding high posts of responsibility, and even ruling over vast populations, finally return to their Motherland to end their days unknown to those around them. They have become in their last and final residence just the ordinary citizen; of their life and strife against climate and what they considered wrong and needing improvement, and their long and strenuous endeavours to uphold the honour of their country, nothing is known.

"Such a man was the late Sir John Rogers, who has lived in our midst for the last three years. Vigorous, and of a strong, forcible nature, he spent his career of nearly 50 years in hot countries came to an end under the pressure of very strenuous war work, and he came to Edeabridge to enjoy the few years left to him.

"Born in 1850, Sir John entered the Army Medical Service, served in the Afghan Campaign, 1878-81, and in 1882 proceeded to Egypt, where he was destined to make a great career for himself. After taking part in the several actions of that year, he threw in his lot with Sir Evelyn Wood, who had been charged with raising a new Egyptian Army, and remained as Principal Medical Officer of that Army until 1892, serving through the several campaigns on the Nile and Red Sea Coast.

"His great organising capacity coming to the notice of Lord Cromer, he was selected to join that little band which worked such wonders in Egypt under Lord Cromer's direction. As Director-General of the Sanitary Department until 1899, he was largely responsible for the great development in the medical and sanitary services of that country. Loaded with honours, Sir John then quitted Government service, and took up a business career in Egypt, becoming a Director of the Agricultural Bank and several other successful concerns.

"When the operations commenced in the Dardanelles, and thousands of sick and wounded were landed in Egypt, Sir John and his very capable wife, Lady Rogers, at once came to the rescue. He was appointed Commissioner of the British Red Cross, and together they toiled through successive hot weathers until 1918, when Sir John's health broke down and he was forced to return to England. For these services he was gazetted a Brevet Colonel, created a Knight of Grace of St. John of Jerusalem, and further decorated, while Lady Rogers was awarded a C.B.E. and created a Lady of Grace, St. John of Jerusalem.

"Sir John was a most versatile man. Organiser and full of business ability he was also a most gifted artist, an exceptionally good musician and an ardent sportsman, having shot big game and fished all over the world. We sympathise deeply with Lady Rogers in her great loss.

"The funeral took place on Thursday at Edeabridge Cemetery. Among the mourners were—Lady Rogers, Mrs. Muspratt (sister), Mr. R. P. Rogers (brother), Miss Muspratt, and Miss E. Muspratt (nieces), General Sir John Asser and Lady Asser, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Charringon, Mr. and Mrs. Lockett, Mr. and Mrs. T. Tidy, Miss Winch, Mrs. Faircloth, etc. Floral tributes were sent by—Lady Rogers, Mrs. and the Misses Muspratt, Brigadier-General L. J. Chanman, Sir Henry and Lady Selater, Sir Gilbert and Lady Parker, Mr. R. B. Winch, Sir Reginald and Lady Wingate, Mr. and Mrs. Lockett, etc.

"The cortege was met at the lych-gate by the choir, and on entering the church the organist played, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." The hymn, "For all Thy Sins," was sung, and the 90th Psalm chanted, and on leaving the church "O Rest in the Lord" was played by Mr. Weaver, who presided at the organ. The service was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. H. O. Edwards, and the Rev. H. Handford, Vicar of Four Mills."

civilians with revolvers, and the civilians near them. Woolley was wounded. Major Fillery was also wounded.

Major Fillery said that on the night in question he arrested two of the civilians. He broke the bone of his right hand in doing so. He was attended by Dr. Kennedy, and his hand was still swollen.

Dr. Kennedy produced an X-ray photograph of applicant's arm showing the broken bone. He gave the details of the injury.

His Honor allowed £50, with £21 to Dr. Kennedy.

Cadet Frank Woolley claimed £1,000 for personal injuries on the same occasion.

There were the same professional appearances. Applicant said he was wounded in the shoulder on this night, and was since unable to do duty. He had been a "tester" in the employment of the London General Omnibus Co. at £8 a week, and £9 a week at times. He could not now use his right arm to any extent.

Dr. Connihan was also examined. His Honor allowed £200 for loss of employment, and £81 for special treatment, with £6 5s expenses.

Mr. W. H. MacDonnell claimed £2,000 for the burning of a dwelling-house at New Hall.

Mr. Cullinan (instructed by Mr. F. W. Hickman, solicitor) was for the applicant.

Mr. Hickman said he was looking after the place for applicant, who had sold his demesne, retaining 120 acres to go with the house. There was a desire to sell the land, and it was seized and kept for twelve months, during which time applicant was trying to sell it. One party in the place wanted to buy it, and another party was against a sale.

Mr. Allen, C.E., said it would cost £856 to rebuild the house.

District Inspector Byrne said he found in one of the rooms two bottles, one of which contained petrol and the other paraffin oil.

His Honor allowed £800, with ten guineas expenses.

Mr. W. T. G. Hickman was allowed £11 15s for damage to his lodge at Hazelwood.

The Secretary of State for War was allowed £2 for damage to military clothes worn by two privates who were wounded in an ambush.

The Postmaster-General was awarded £263 for damage to telegraph poles and wires in various districts in East Clare.

John Curtin, a farmer, living at Knockdwinagh, was awarded £200 for damage done to his lands.

The evidence showed that a bridge over a stream going through the lands was injured, and the military threw the stones into the river, filling it up, and causing flooding on the adjoining lands.
