Manuel Whittaker was applicant for compensation for the seizure of hairdresser's goods and household effects in July, 1922.

Early in the fighting the claimant stated he was ordered out of his house by the irregulars who took possession. When he returned on the 21st July, the day after the evacuation, he ascertained that a considerable amount of requisites were taken, and the furniture damaged by bullet holes. By Mr Moran—He sent the damaged furniture to Messrs Norton's auction, and received in or about £80 for it.

His Honor awarded £35.

Patrick Sadlier, Catherine street, applied for £126 compensation for the seizure of goods during the conflict in July, 1922, and was allowed £47 10s.

COUNTY APPLICATIONS.

It is expected that the city claims will be completed in a fortnight, when the claims, which run into between nine hundred and a thousand, from the county will be taken and be continued up to the 27th March, when the Quarter Sessions will be opened.

The county applications will in all probability be taken on the 7th proximo.

REVUETTE ATTRACTION AT LYRIC.

Mr George Hay, manager of the Lyric, is to be complimented on having secured a brilliant and originally devised Revue and Concert Party for the week commencing February 25th, when, as may be seen by advertisement, Messrs. J. Milton Forbes and Freddy Escott will present "Revels in Bohemia." The citizens will remember the successful Revue "Hot Lips," which appeared a few weeks ago, and several of the artistes of this new production will be remembered as appearing in that Revue. Freddy Escott, who has devised and produced "Revels in Bohemia," was leading gentleman of "Hot Lips," and is heard to distinct advantage in song and duets. Ruby Ray (the Comedy Girl) is a decided acquisition to the lighter side of this production, and possesses a quaint style of her own. Daphne Clare is a vivacious and dainty soubrette and child mimic, who features chorus numbers, and, in association with Freddy Escott, duets of pleasing nature. Dossie Clare, specialty dancer, features Eastern and toe dancing, and was premier danseuse in "Hot Lips." Iris Mae, the possessor of a beautiful soprano voice, is heard in ballads and operatic excerpts, and solo accompanist. Eric Ward (baritone) and Gus Walker (comedian) are strong supporting artistes. J. Milton Forbes features humorous and dramatic monologues, songs, characters from Dickens and well-known plays, and was understudy to Sir John Martin Harvey as Sydney Carton in "The Only Way." The concertos and ensembles are tuneful and melodious, and intending visitors are requested to book their seats, as there is certain to be an unprecedented demand to see this brilliant and original production.

COLLAPSE OF A HOUSE.

On Tuesday evening an unoccupied house in Nicholas street collapsed and fell into the street but fortunately without injuring anybody. At the time there were few people in the thoroughfare, but some short time before the collapse a

He described the damage he found existing to the house and furniture.

His Honor said he could not hold that this raid was the work of irregulars.

On the application of counsel, his Honor adjourned the application, with liberty to applicant to serve a new claim upon the County Council in connection with an application for compensation for damage to the house.

DEATH OF MR TOM MUIQUEEN.

In Irish coursing circles the death will be learned with regret of Mr Tom Mu'queen, at the age of sixty years, which took place at his residence, Newtown, Clarina, yesterday morning. The deceased had only been ailing a few days, the cause of death being heart failure. The late Mr Mu'queen was an all-round sportsman, and was for many years official slipper at the County Limerick Coursing Club meetings. He acted in this capacity in the early days of the Irish Cup at Clounanna, and took a keen interest in the Irish Cup trials. He also officiated as slipper at various Southern fixtures, and had few competitors in this branch of sport. The interment took place to-day at Killeedy Cemetery.

CONWAY COMEDY COMPANY.

Large and highly appreciative audiences patronise the performances of the excellent Conway Musical Comedy Company at the Lyric. "The Leprechaun" was produced last night, and will be repeated to-night. "The Cruise of the Cruikneen Lawn" will, as advertised, be presented on Friday and Saturday.
