

The weather round the... was none of the best. Sunday evening was cold for the time of the year, and of an unsettled appearance. Monday morning, however, which was ushered in with bright sunshine, raised the hopes of trippers, but they were doomed to disappointment, as rain descended at midday and continued at intervals during the evening. But it turned out better than had been anticipated, and those who betook themselves to the country by train or car had no great cause for grumbling after all. There were cheap ticket arrangements on the G S and W.R. to various places over the week-end, and a big excursion to Dublin on Sunday in connection with the Silver Jubilee celebrations of the Pioneer Total Abstinence. With such facilities for travel the streets of Limerick presented rather a deserted appearance yesterday afternoon.

EXCURSION FROM DUBLIN.

On Sunday two special returns, conveying over two thousand people, arrived from Dublin, and during the day visited various places of historic interest in the city, while many drove out to Castleconnell and Adare. The excursionists were accompanied by St James's Brass Band, which, having played through the streets, performed in the People's Park in the afternoon to the great pleasure of a large concourse. It is a very powerful band, excellently balanced, and its selections from some famous composers were applauded to the echo, and acknowledged by the conductor, Mr J. D. Murky, R.M.S.M. The visitors evidently enjoyed their sojourn in Limerick, and we hope we shall hear this splendid band again.

DEATH OF MR T. P. LEDGER.

We regret to record the death of Mr Thomas Palmer Ledger, bookseller and stationer, which took place on Sunday morning at his residence, O'Connell street, after a brief illness. Mr Ledger, who was second son of the late Mr Z. J. Ledger, came of a family who for more than a century have been associated with Limerick's commercial life. He himself was a very kindly, courteous, and unassuming gentleman, who whether in business or private life enjoyed the high esteem and regard of all who knew him. His premature demise is deeply regretted, and there is widespread sympathy with his widow and young family in the bereavement that has come to them.

The funeral will take place at 2.30 p.m. on Wednesday for St Munchin's.

DISTRIBUTION OF CLARINA ESTATE.

At a fully attended meeting of the Ballybrown Cumann na nGaedheal Branch, held on Monday, Mr C. O'Brien presiding, on the proposition of the Chairman the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

"That we request our T.D.'s for Limerick to direct the Land Commission officials to communicate through this branch before parcelling out the lands of the Clarina property now awaiting distribution."

"That we condemn the action of the officials of the Land Commission in causing to be issued processes against several farmers in this parish for their half-yearly annuities due last year without sending them the usual six days' notice; and call on our local T.D.'s to demand that the costs incurred be refunded."
