PARKING OF OMNIBUSES.

At the meeting of the Corporation Hackney Car Committee on Thursday night a letter was read from Messrs. Daly, bakers and confectioners, complaining of the great inconvenience caused to their business by the I.O. Company parking buses outside their premises and leaving little space for the loading of their own vans. The inspector of hackney cars and motors reported that he had warned the I.O. Company of the inconvenience created, but as no notice was taken he directed that proceedings be taken. The action of Mr Forrest was approved.

RUNAWAY HORSE.

A horse yoked to a cart took fright in William-street yesterday, and dashed at a furious rate through the thoroughfare, scattering pedestrians right and left. One man, named Michael O'Brien, was knocked down and sustained injuries to the head and arm, and before the animal's flight was checked it ran into the pavement and made fragments of a plate-glass window belonging to Mr O'Donnell, harness maker, William-street.

with causing grievous bodily harm to Detective Guard Luby, at Clonlara.

It was stated by Superintendent Mooney, Killaloe, that the Detective was still unable to attend court, being under medical treatment. On the occasion of the attack the Detective was dangerously slashed with a razor. Since last Court day he had learned that accused had been deported from America.

When asked if he had any objection to being remanded, the prisoner took a fit of laughing, and the application of the Superintendent was acceded to.

GRAND CENTRAL.

All next week, at 7 and 9, a great picture, reminiscent of a most heroic, yet deeply tragic episode of the European War, entitled "Dawn," will be produced at the Grand Central, and should attract crowded houses. The picture needs no introduction, but the following from the "Daily Chronicle" gives a vivid insight into its merits, which will be appreciated by all who will next week have the opportunity of seeing a really striking and remarkable production—"Quite apart from the public curiosity created by reason of its having had a sensationally stormy passage on its way to the screen, 'Dawn' will certainly be an outstanding popular success. It is, in itself, a very beautiful picture. Considered merely as a screen play, it is one of the best emotional pictures yet made in this or in any other country. Its drama is set down with simplicity and sincerity. Whether one agrees or not with the choice of such a theme, one must admit that this theme having been chosen, could not have been better handled. This is so emphatically true that very few will be able to see 'Dawn' without being profoundly moved by it. Herbert Wilcox in this picture has clearly lifted film production to new emotional heights. In her representation of the character of Nurse Cavell, Sybil Thornton is magnificent. She presents an unforgettable portrait, which, by reason of its extreme austerity, convinces one of its complete fidelity." There will be matinees on Thursday and Saturday at 3.30.
