

mittee will consider in due course. Meantime Dr Kelly's report is to be circulated for consideration at next meeting of the Managing Committee, and as we have already said, it is a very gratifying one in the high tribute paid to the management of the hospital and its efficiency.

DEATH OF MR. W. HOLLIDAY.

We regret to announce the death, which took place at his residence, Rose Villa, Corbally, last night, of an old and highly esteemed citizen, Mr William Holliday, after an illness of a few months. The deceased gentleman, who had attained his seventy-ninth year, was for over half a century prominently connected with the commercial life of the city. He was managing director of Messrs. J. and G. Boyd, Ltd., the well-known firm of general wholesale and retail merchants, with which he was associated for sixty-four years. He was one of the oldest members of the Chamber of Commerce, of which he was President for a term, and was elected a Harbour Commissioner nearly forty years ago, but when he relinquished the position of managing director of Boyd's a few years ago he did not seek re-election on the Harbour Board. He held the Commission of the Peace, and was City High Sheriff in 1910 and 1911, and on the death of King Edward, in May, 1910, he proclaimed in his official capacity King George's accession to the throne. Mr Holliday was a director of the Irish American Oil Company for many years, and he also took an active part in the industrial revival movement. He was a fine type of citizen, keenly interested in the well-being of the community, and highly popular. He was warm-hearted and generous, a good friend, and in their bereavement the sympathy of the public will be extended to his family.

Funeral at ten o'clock to-morrow (Friday) morning for St. Mary's Cathedral.

INCUMBENCY OF TARBERT.

The Rev C. Murray, B.D., has been appointed by the Bishop to the Incumbency of Kilnaughton, Tarbert, which has been vacant since the Rev G. C. Phair became were made for the sick poor for whom they were primarily responsible. Coming now to their own Association, he joined in the expression of condolence of the Committee with their President, Mrs Grene Barry, on the death of her husband. They knew that since then she had lost other near relatives, and their message of condolence was, therefore, all the more due to her. Mrs Grene Barry had their deepest sympathy in the bereavement which had befallen her. His Lordship found that the number of visits during the year paid by their nurses amounted to 30 per day. That was a great work, and it was done day in day out. Considering the value of work done and their limited financial resources they might well congratulate themselves on the report. (Applause).

Very Rev Canon O'Leary proposed the adoption of the report and the re-election of the Committee and officers, and said he was struck by the extraordinary amount of work that had been done with such little financial resources. The capital was very small but the work was mighty. It was not, however, the financial side they looked to but to the grace of God in doing this great work for the sick poor.

Miss Alice Doyle seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

Father O'Donoghue, in proposing that — "The Society is worthy the support of the citizens," said that no words were needed to impress that fact on anybody. They should extend to their nurses hearty congratulations, and also to the committee and officers. Those who extended their help to the Association were giving to God's poor.

Father Wall seconded the resolution, which was adopted.

Mr J. H. Roche proposed — "That the best thanks of the meeting be tendered to the Sisters of Mercy, the Little Company of Mary, Miss Ryan, and the Committee." He had very often come across the Sisters who had visited the homes of the poor, and he could see what a marvellous work they were doing, and what a blessing it was to the sick. They deserved their very best thanks.

Miss Barry seconded the motion, which was adopted, his lordship adding to the vote of thanks to the hon. secretaries of the Society.

Very Rev Canon O'Leary was moved to the second chair by Mr J. A. Doyle, solr, who proposed a vote of thanks to the Bishop for coming there that day, and for his keen interest in the work of the Association and in the affairs of
