

his companion. The incident attracted very little attention, but the Civic Guards were subsequently informed, and were engaged during the night instituting inquiries. The seized minute book contained no reference to any resolution condemnatory of murder, or to any political subject, as it merely dealt with public health matters.

No arrest has yet been made in connection with the affair.

AMMUNITION DUMP DISCOVERY.

On Sunday evening Sergeant Higgins, John street, proceeded to Crossagalla, on the outskirts of the city, and discovered in a dump a considerable quantity of ammunition. At the time the Sergeant was prosecuting enquiries in the district in reference to an alleged interference with a transformer station, and came across the dump quite accidentally. He took possession of the find, one hundred and fifty rounds of '303 ammunition, which was removed to William street Garda station.

DEATH OF MR P. J. HENIHAN, B.C.

The death, which we record with regret, took place at his residence, Park View Terrace, last evening, of Mr Patrick J. Henihan, B.C, following an illness of considerable duration. The deceased was for a number of years manager of Messrs McDonagh's livery establishment, Henry street, and subsequently was proprietor of a garage in Cecil street. He was a member of an old city family, and a man of kindly disposition and extremely popular.

backwash from countries of State, but with cool heads judgment and complete control the resources of our country the ability and good sense of the people, the bright future that is mentioned will be here even sooner than some of us anticipate.

I do not think that I would be untrue to my duty if I were not to make mention of the great features of your locality which are now becoming known as the Shannonside. I may say that it is the pride of every man, and the envy of many a country, and it, in time, is going to be greatly the development of our land. At the same time be a real economic benefit further correcting our trade balance.

In conclusion may I say that I have seen here in Limerick in connection with your Carnival fortnight, that you have your confidence in that future in a certain manner. When we recollect that we are not in the same condition of increased taxation which our country has recently been called upon to bear, we are not in the same condition. It is sound and our finances are healthy. We are a truly solvent nation, and at the moment I cannot see that with us there is any necessity for increasing the burdens of any sort on the country. (Applause).

Concluding, Mr Carroll said that he was very glad the Development Association included sports in their amusements programme. Attached to their tobacco factory in Dundalk was a sports field, which was available for every member of the factory girls as well as directors.

The Earl of Dunraven, who was
