

being must have the solicitude of the public generally. The proposals are of such a character as to make them commendable to the custodians of the Trust Fund, but the degree to which they can be financed will largely depend on the sum that will be available for distribution. But as to this, there are indications that the present Sweep-stake will be as popular as its predecessors.

DEATH OF MR. SPENCER E. TRAVERS

His many friends in Limerick will deeply regret to learn of the death of Mr Spencer E. Travers, which took place at his residence, Timoleague, County Cork, yesterday, as the result of injuries received from an attack by a bull on his lands last Wednesday. Mr Travers was head of the Probate Office in Limerick for some thirty years, and several years ago he retired from office. He resided at Dooncen House, and was very popular both in official and private life. Deep sympathy is extended to his widow and son in their great sorrow.

ACCIDENT AT GAS WORKS.

While supervising and examining samples of oil from the new tar refining plant at the Corporation Gas Works on Thursday evening, Mr W. J. Horne, consulting analyst, was accidentally overcome by some of the volatile fumes. He collapsed, and was found to be unconscious nearby, but came round after a time. He sustained facial injuries, which are not serious. His numerous friends will be glad to learn that Mr Horne is progressing favourably.

DELEGATES TO PUBLIC HEALTH CONFERENCE.

The Mayor (Ald. P. J. Donnellan) and Councillor C. V. O Malley, with the Borough Surveyor (Mr J. J. Peacocke), and Dr T. W. Moran, Superintendent Medical Officer of Health, will be the city delegates to the conference on Public Health to be held in Dublin on Tuesday next. At the conference papers dealing with housing scheme finance and other subjects incidental to social on foot of a joint and several bond due performance by James Leyde duties as rate collector. He shot lodged £5.029 13s 8d on or before March, 1927, but only lodged £4,12 After allowing credit for £381 irrecoverable rates and making certain allowances, there was due £528 9s 1 defendants never disputed the amount or their liability on foot of the bond judgment

The application was granted.

For the plaintiffs, Mr Dubhghl Fhionnlaioich (instructed by Mr J. J

DISPUTE NEAR PALLASGRI

Charge of Assault.

Michael Egan, Knockderk, Pall was arrested last evening charged with serious assault on two aged men, Hugh Hogan, aged 70, and Patrick

It appears Egan was litigant at green Court the previous day, and turning to Hogan's home where he altercation took place, in the course of a pitchfork is alleged to have been Both, it is stated, sustained rather injuries, and were removed to the Hospital, Croom.

FISHERY PROSECUTIONS ABBEYFEALE.

At Ableyfeale, Thomas O'Keefe fined £2 for consigning a parcel containing a salmon at Abbeyfeale Railway without having the word salmon name and address of the consignor thereon

J. Hourigan, a licensed angler, committed walking across the Feale with a net in his hand, was fined £2. His net was on the bank. Michael Cullirane and Michael D. Curtin, for poking in the Feale, were each fined £2. Michael D. Curtin, who said he was eight miles away at the time, was also fined for poking.

Defendants belonged to the Moy district.

The Pope has sent a vigorous protest.