Aged Woman's Death

Margaret Daly, 70, died on Sunday evening at Barrington's Hospital from burns accidentally received at her residence, Little Barrington street. The day being wet, she stood near the fire on her return home; her clothes caught fire, and she had to be removed to hospital in the Corporate ambulance. Coroner Clery held an inquest; verdict of death due to accident was returned.

Fell From Window

Michael Hayes, 63, died in the City Home on Sunday night. He lived alone in Carey's Road, and in the early hours of Saturday fell from a window in the second storey. He was found lying unconscious in the street underneath, and conveyed to hospital.
